That's All, Folks

Along the busy street of Third West stands the den of the effusive, yet modest, Panthers. Dear old West High, School of Scholars and Champions, is filled with hundreds of students seeking an education to bring them a shining future.

The halls are filled with eager students maneuvering their way through the traffic and seeking to get to class on time. Among the new faces are the young breed of panthers in the Extended Learning Program. These seventh through tenth graders join the rest in the blend which is West High.

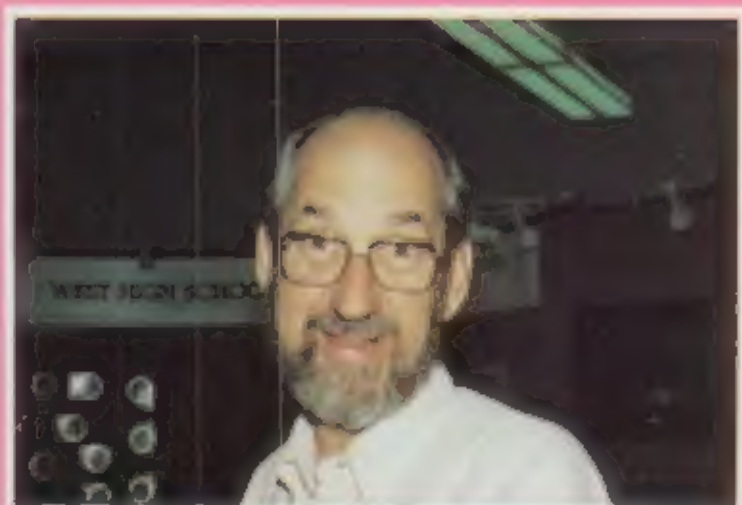

International Baccalaureate students continue their winning academic ways in the Salt Lake School District's only higher level educational program beyond honors and advanced place-

Excellence on the playing fields, courts and mats bring teams, fans, and other supporters together behind the proud athletic tradition that is so West High.

Clubs and student government do their part in uniting the extra-curricular achievement efforts of the student body. E-Board carries unity one step further by planning the absorption of South High students into West.

Despite the many difficult challenges high school life brings, students fell in love with the everyday routine of education. Seniors found moving on to college or a career a heartbreaking and an exhilarating experience. United West High was a hard habit to shake. We're sorry, seniors, but that's all, folks!

Mr. Lloyd Coates pauses for only a moment as he creates signs for ~~West~~.

Tammy, Julie and Kirsten all smile in enjoyment, looking forward to another year.

Mr. Miner looks stunned when he realizes who will be serving in this year's House of Representatives class.

United with Spirit

United - working as a whole
Undivided - not parted
This was E-Board's intention when making up West High's school theme for the 1987-88 school year: to make West and the students as one, working harmoniously. After all, it was the students and faculty and staff who made up West and who had to be united to make West better.

The theme promoted unity and spirit through the halls and playing fields of West. Not just with clubs and spirit groups but with each individual trying together with everyone else to make West a family. The competition was no longer between classes but, rather, with other schools, as it should be, helping West become stronger step by step. It was a task that had to be done and the theme helped.

The 1987-88 theme gave more pride to the students as shirts were worn, posters were hung and balloons were released to remind everyone who we were and what we were made of.

Simple, catchy and easy to remember best described these four words - West United, Spirit Undivided - that lasted throughout the whole school year and probably for years to come.

Day by day students could see the change West High was making, pushing toward being number one in the nation.

Finally, West High was getting more faith in itself . . . thanks to a catchy four word phrase created on a bus by a bunch of students on a trip to Lake Powell.

West United and Spirit Undivided was traditionally revealed at the Hello Day Assembly. Rob Leishman, President, summed it up best when he said E-Board chose this theme so West could be "One big, happy family."

Students at West accepted and acted upon this theme, turning up great results!

With the school theme printed on them, the balloons represented spirit and unity as students enjoyed the Hello Day assembly.

Loyal fans were always there to support and watch their prospering football team, while sneaking in a few minutes to socialize.

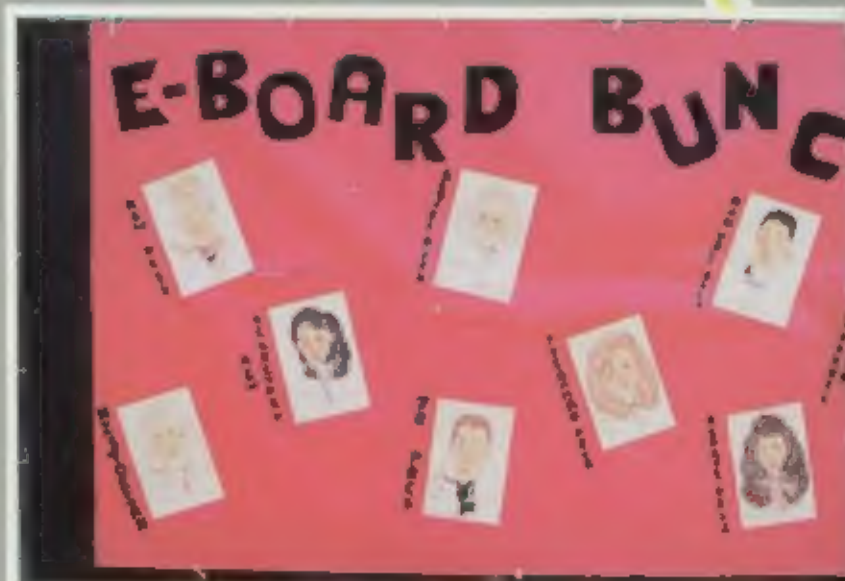

West High stands strong and tall as it symbolizes our unity and spirit.

ASW officers: Secretary Saranya Suddhiphayak, Senate Jennifer Potter, Historian Julie Steed, Vice-president Greg Takenaka, and President Rob Lesihman.

The E-Board Bunch expressed their true light, as shown by their Homecoming fence, telling the student body they're just one big happy family.

E-Board members liked to monkey around after a day of fulfilling their responsibilities and duties that come with being a leader of the school.

Strutting their stuff, drill team members helped out E-board in the Hello Day assembly.

Leading With Unity and Spirit

Under the direction of A.S.W. President Rob Leishman, West High's Executive Board led the school toward spirit and unity.

E-Board had many responsibilities in addition to the activities they planned during school time. Each member spent many extra hours a week. As Rob Leishman said, "Anyone in his right mind wouldn't do it, but I'm not in my right mind."

They planned agendas for some assemblies and handed stamps. They also ran the activities during Homecoming and Spirit Weeks. E-Board decided on which fund raisers different clubs could use. And they themselves raised money for next year's E-Board retreat.

Members also had the obligation to be visible in school activities. One could always see them in their red sweat-shirts at games and stumps.

One issue involving E-Board was the closure of South High and the absorption of its students into the other Salt Lake high schools.

Rob Leishman served on the School Board Implementation Committee representing West, along with Ann Clawson and Dr. Paul Hanks. At School Board meetings E-

Board represented West's viewpoint.

E-Board was involved in Community projects. Yes, there was no rest for this group. They sponsored Sub-for-Santa and were involved with the March of Dimes.

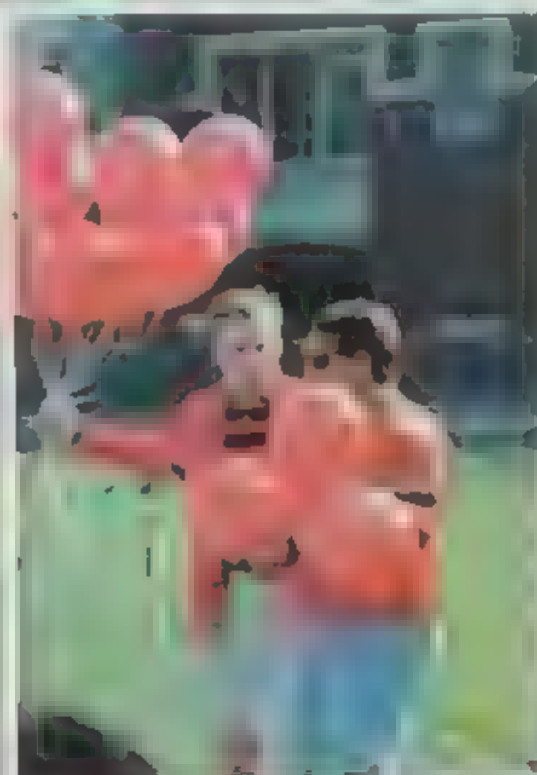

They created the school theme "West United Spirit Undivided" while on their Lake Powell retreat. Students released red balloons printed with the theme on Hero Day.

As secretary Saranya Suddhiphayak said, "E-Board is a good experience."

Spreading Spirit

Spirit and Unity was what the House of Representatives was all about. The House consisted of class vice-presidents and secretaries, WAG and WHAM presidents, publicity, head cheerleader, representatives from girls and boys sports, Esprit, Oestanas, band and Dance Co., all under the direction of Rod Miner.

Their first activity was the Homecoming Royalty Pageant, along with helping out on all the other activities that take place during Homecoming Week. Later, during Halloween the House of Reps carved pumpkins and took them to sick children in Shriners' Hospital. In December, the House did their own Sub-For-Santa for needy children in the community.

As if that weren't enough, the House of Reps learned about government by studying Robert's Rules of Order and on occasion would visit the Capitol to see legislative meetings. Don't let them fool you. They would still take a breath for a moment of fun.

Along with their own duties and assignments, the House of Reps would stop and help any club or organization at West. For instance Wendy Johnson, Publicity Chairman, delighted students with her unique signs promoting athletic events.

The House of Reps made its mark on West with ideas, leadership, and excitement.

Besides helping put the pageant together Tracy was also a homecoming attendant

Leading the way

Behind West High's motto, goals, programs and great student body lay the source of West's strength - the administration. Every year brought West closer to its ultimate goal of being a top ten school in the nation, thanks to the dedication of Mr. Trussel, Mr. Boston and now Mr. Bonella, who replaced Mr. Marelli as assistant principal.

When asked what each liked best about West, the answer immediately was "the student body."

"The students at West are responsible and mature. They work with us, which makes the school run smoothly as a whole," said Mr. Boston.

From the time he was a junior in high school, Mr. Trussel knew he wanted to go into education because of the influence of a good teacher he'd had.

Mr. Bonella changed to teaching because of disagreements within his first profession, speech and hearing. Mr. Boston had planned on professional roller skating (really!)

Although moving West

toward its ultimate goal takes up most of their time, the administrators need to relax now and then. Mr. Bonella loves to fish. Mr. Trussel gardens, reads, travels and enjoys the arts. Guess what Mr. Boston likes?

If the student body is the reason the administrators love West, they are the reason for the students' unity. They provide the programs and opportunities for West to grow and succeed.

Hello Welcome Back Again!

Hello Day got off to a wonderful and exciting start

Panthers were welcomed to the assembly and into the new school year by A S W President Rob Leishman. His friendliness made us all feel like an important part of the school

The color guard, new to West this year, presented the flag. After we recited the Pledge of Allegiance and sang the school song a skit, the E-Board Bunch based on the television Brady Bunch, introduced this year's Executive Board football practice. The school theme "West United, Spirit Undivided" was unveiled. T-shirts with the theme printed were sold to the student body

The slide show presented pictures of the officers retreat to Lake Powell registration, and summer

Then students streamed out to the football field where helium balloons with the theme were passed out. The Marching Band and Color Guard performed their fabulous field show. Rob Leishman signaled for the release of the balloons. They went up towards the mountains in a sea of glistening red. The Oestanas performed with the band. Wearing black unitards and sequins, they were in impressive unison

The competition cheerleaders, made up of the eighteen varsity and junior varsity members, demonstrated a difficult routine which featured three-high pyramids, gymnastics and basket tosses

As the balloons disappeared into smaller and smaller specks in the sky, Rob dismissed the student crowd to second period classes

But the spirit shown on Hello Day did not drift away with the full red balloons. Just as more balloons with the school theme made their appearance at school functions so did the friendliness, good cheer one felt that day

best and Friday was the traditional Red and Black day

Students were released at 12:10 to join the alumni at the Homecoming assembly. First on the agenda were the current and alum cheerleaders leading the crowd in cheers and fight songs.

Oestana's Melinda Bowers announced the winner of the Limo for Homecoming night, Steven Hopkins. The Oestanas performed a dazzling football routine after which their alums were introduced. Fence decorating winners were announced with the Sophomores and Freshman taking first, Juniors taking second and VICA woodshop taking third.

Coach Gene Plaga presented a new tradition for West, the Athletic Hall of Fame. Seven former athletes were the first inductees: Aldo Richens, 1929; Herb Nakkey, 1952; Verl Darden, 1946; Bill Wright, 1959; Dick Nemeika, 1962; and Jill Moien Koeven, 1979. Their names appeared on the Hall of Fame trophy plaque in the Fieldhouse showcase.

The Alumni Association announced the alums of the years: Linda Richmond and Dr. Jay Gordon Holmes.

Homecoming royalty was introduced. Attendants were Tracy Scott, Tanya Radomski, and Saranya Sudiphkayak. Queen was Jennifer Potter.

After the uplifting assembly, everyone rushed out to see the Panthers slaughter the Tooele Buffalos, the score being 26-6. During the football game Larayne Mickels won a 150 dollars saving bonds when the first ball of the game landed on her piece of the field. At half-time the Homecoming royalty was presented and our spectacular band performed an exciting number for the crowd.

The week ended on Saturday night with the WAG Homecoming dance decorated in peach and brown and with the theme "Love Only Knows Why." The band "Portrait" livened up the night with their awesome sounds. Over all everyone seemed to have a great time during "Homecoming".

The proud alums of West High were glad to be back at West one more time.

Panther Expresses Spirit In New Style

The slick, black panther amazed and amused the students and fans of West High. The Panther did some of the most original stunts ever seen and continued the tradition of taking care of the crowds.

Who's the person under the mask, you ask? Why junior Donald Dunn of course! Who else could give our Panther such a lovable, funny personality?

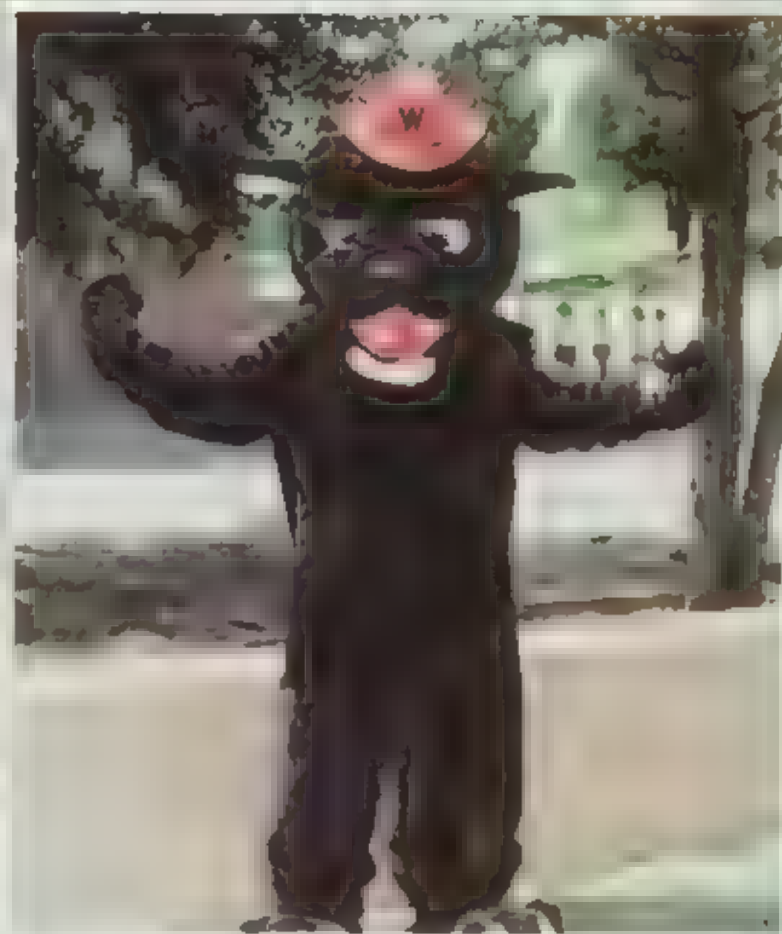

An important part of being Panther is getting people's attention. Donald clearly succeeded in doing that! He always arrived in style. At the varsity football game against the East High Leopards, the Panther arrived in a limosine dressed in a smashing white tuxedo. That was style at its best. Against the Jordan beef diggers, he made his grand arrival in an ambulance carrying an injured beef on a stretcher.

And Donald's thoughts?

This has been a wonderful experience but it's so hard to be a silent Panther.

WE HAVE THE
WEST SIDE
PRIDE WHA

Pride Reigns Above All Else

The pride of West really shone during Pride Week January 19 through 22. Classes and clubs set out to prove that they had a lot of pride in their school by hanging up creative signs throughout the building. "Sophomores have that West Pride," "Pride is running wild in the West, Class of '89," and "West High Debate Speaks with Pride."

The week started off Tuesday with "Have Pride in Yourself Day." Wednesday was Pride and Friendship Day and Thursday was Accomplishment and Locker/Hall clean-up day.

It finally came Friday, the day of the pride assembly. Students showed pride in their classes by wearing their class colors.

At the beginning of the week the homeroom class doors were decorated and judged. The winners were third place, Mrs. Hunt's room 315, second place Mr. Lunt's room 222, and first place was Miss Plagas' room.

The Pride Plaque winners were ELP Aaron Dewe, freshman, Nate Byrd, sophomore, Rachel Wilkinson, juniors, Tasha Worthinton and Shane Keener, and senior Mark Steed, and faculty Mrs. Robertson.

With all of our pride how could we not be proud of West?

Senior Victory Spirit Spectacular

A whirl of activity in the week of March 7th to 11th? Yes! It was the five days of spirit showing.

The week started out with the famous lunch activity, the car stuff. The Freshmen/ELP took a record-breaking win, stuffing 31 little ones into a car. Amazingly, the grown-up seniors took a second place with 26 people.

On Tuesday everyone decked out in beach attire to see "how low they could go" in the limbo. Junior Al Dinh dominated with Jennifer Potter in the running. In the boys division, ELP Mike Kennedy took first.

All those who dressed up had a chance to gain points for their class throughout the week. Best beachy were frosh Liz Nizonger and Dave Smith.

Wednesday was a new day but the competition was stiff in the bizarre professional uniform. In the annual hairy and smooth legs contest, Sophomore Carrie Thomas and Senior Rob Leishman took smoothest while in hairy legs contest, Kelly Connary, Junior and Jeff Adams, senior, won.

"Howdy!" yelled all the Hillbillies on Thursday. Gulp! Gulp! was heard down in the cafeteria by the guzzling groupies.

Thursday night included the long, late hours of hall decorating. Classes spent hours to perfect their halls.

The finale of Spirit week was Friday at the spirited Spirit-Bowl. The games began with an unusual obstacle course with the winners the Seniors.

Winners All!

Derek Davis in second in the girls, sophomores gained points with Kim Timmons and Lorrina Heisey, Junior, took second for her class. Another new event was to see how many people could jump into a turning jump rope. The sophomores and freshmen tied with nine people jumping.

Next was the Limbo Jimbo for the girls. Al Dinh, and for the boys, a sophomore Chris Dunn. Smooch Smooch it was the Suck Face contest with blocks of ice cold on bare feet. What a success for the freshmen, and seniors came kissing in second. Yelling the loudest were the sophomores with the seniors, second loudest Rob Leishman and Margarita Satini gulped it down winning the guzzling contest for the seniors.

A new addition was the crack egg contest. Ranking and guessing was the name of the game, but juniors seemed to be the most experienced, and freshmen were next. The last and the hardest test of endurance was the tug-of-war with the tough sophomore girls taking the win overall, and the seniors taking the pull for the boys. One last contest that was yet to be revealed, and that being the winners of the tug-of-war. And the winners were the juniors with a stunning haul.

The seniors came out on top, took the win, the victory, the trophy, and everything that comes with the taste of success.

To end it all was the Hawaiian Stomp put on by the E-B and. Everyone could return to normal and best of all—everyone could be friends.

Crowds Pep Up Assemblies

Freshmen are you here? Sophomores can you cheer? Juniors all right! Seniors out of sight! Yes, everyone was alive and ready for those fun morning breaks from classes — Pep Assemblies. They just weren't breaks from classes but a time to get the student body revved up for the upcoming game. Pep assemblies were well attended but sometimes the games weren't and these assemblies were used to promote attendance.

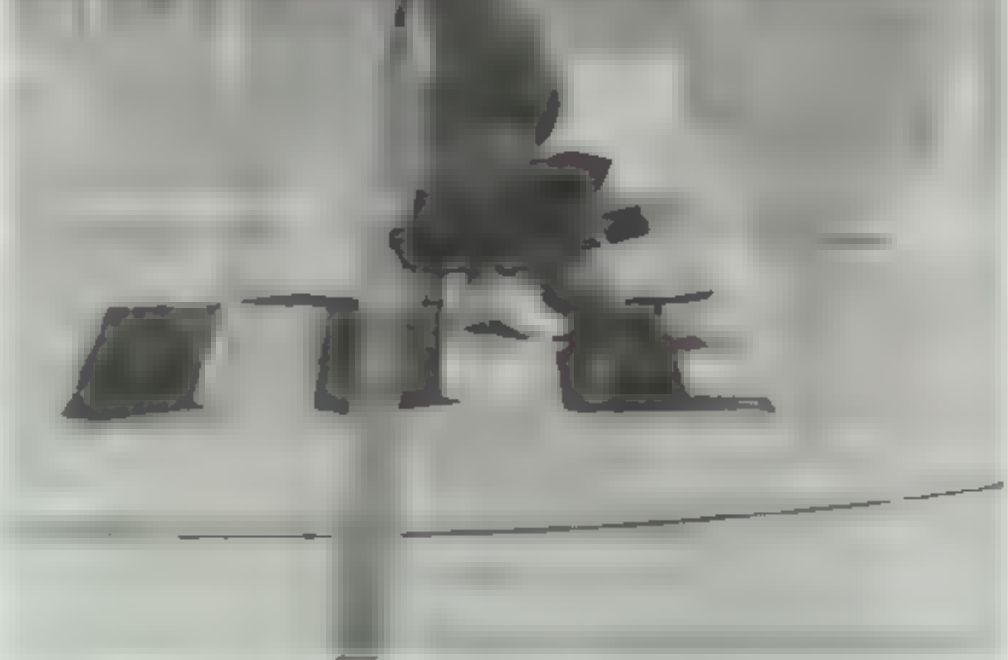

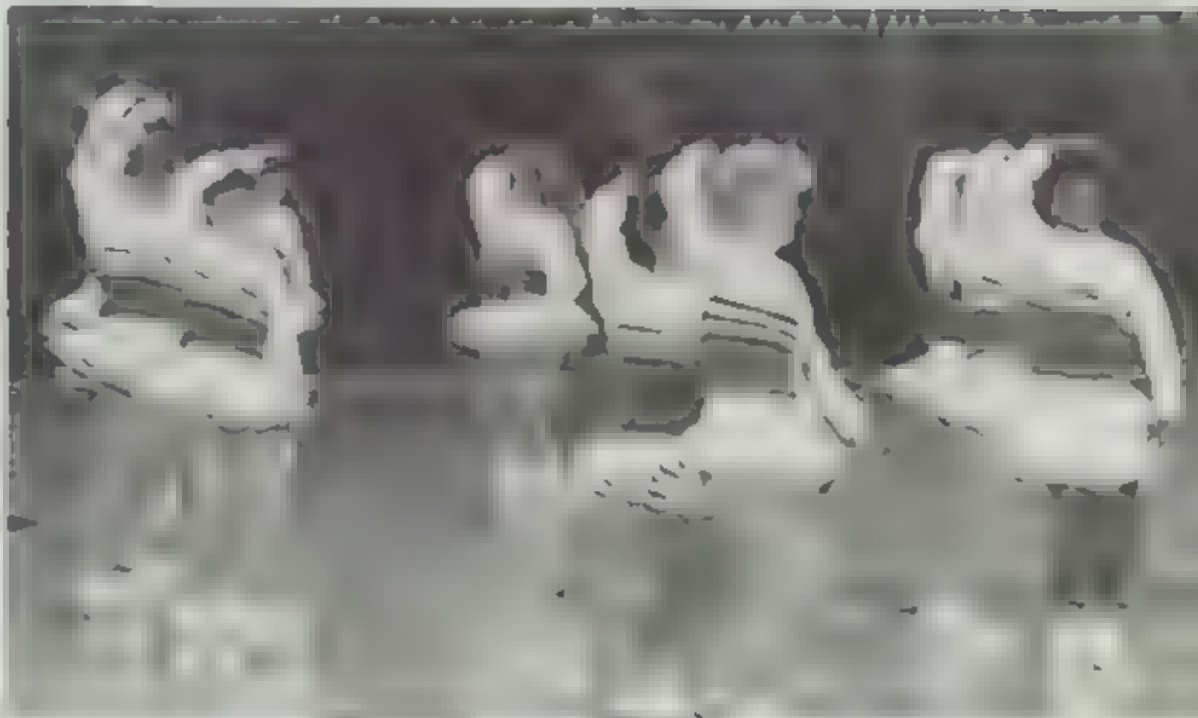

This fun filled forty five minutes were put on by the cheerleaders and the E-Board and consisted of various skits, exciting relays, peppy cheers, introductions of teams and coaches, encouragement of the fans to come and support their teams. Pep assemblies proved to be a crowd pleaser and a lot of time and effort went behind putting on an assembly. Cheerleaders would spend many hours after school to make a routine come off perfectly, while E Board spent time running around getting ideas, permission and help to make an assembly with lots of pep. A fine touch was Rob Lersman leading the crowd with his "Hey" Cheer. Students always responded to him.

Dance Company's Homecoming fence shows dance members' love for West High

The Marching Panthers welcomed students back with a performance at the Hello Day Assembly

Working Together

The clubs this year in their activities and support of the school worked separately and together to make West the best it could be.

Spirit Groups, including the cheerleaders, spirit, and Gestarias, all came together when it involved school spirit. Riding to the games with each other and cheering with a they've got succeeded in making the games much more exciting. Also these organizations, as one, combined their talents at the "Night Out Performance" which was a helpful fund raiser for all.

Many groups were a feed into other organizations. This gave students the experience they needed to go onto something a little more challenging. Acapella members might go into Chorale and Dance Company members might participate in Gestarias. This system made prestigious organizations contain the most talented individuals of West.

There were close relations between a number of similar organizations. DECA and FBLA participated in several activities together. They enjoyed a great day at the 49th Street Galleria where they saw business at work and where they also had sheer fun. The band and orchestra were of close ties and the foreign language clubs were involved in many common projects.

And of course, when it came right down to it, each club helped another in some way, sometime throughout the year. This was true of Yearbook and the Red and Black newspaper, who shared chemicals, parts, and even photos when in a pinch.

The contributions of all the clubs affected West High in some positive way, either by themselves or with the help of another, and West was better for it.

Showing off their moves Lorenzo Gonzales, James Bargener and Alvin Tolentino made their debut as part of the 'Bachelor brothers'

Varsity & J.V. Cheer To Victory

"Oh, yes, we are superior, best by far," was a chant heard from this year's cheerleaders, and they proved to be so.

The Varsity squad was made up five juniors and four seniors, while the JV's consisted of nine sophomores. Together these squads formed the West National Competition Squad. With head varsity cheerleader Debbie Burgess and head JV Laur Evershed, they raised the level of crowd participation and excitement.

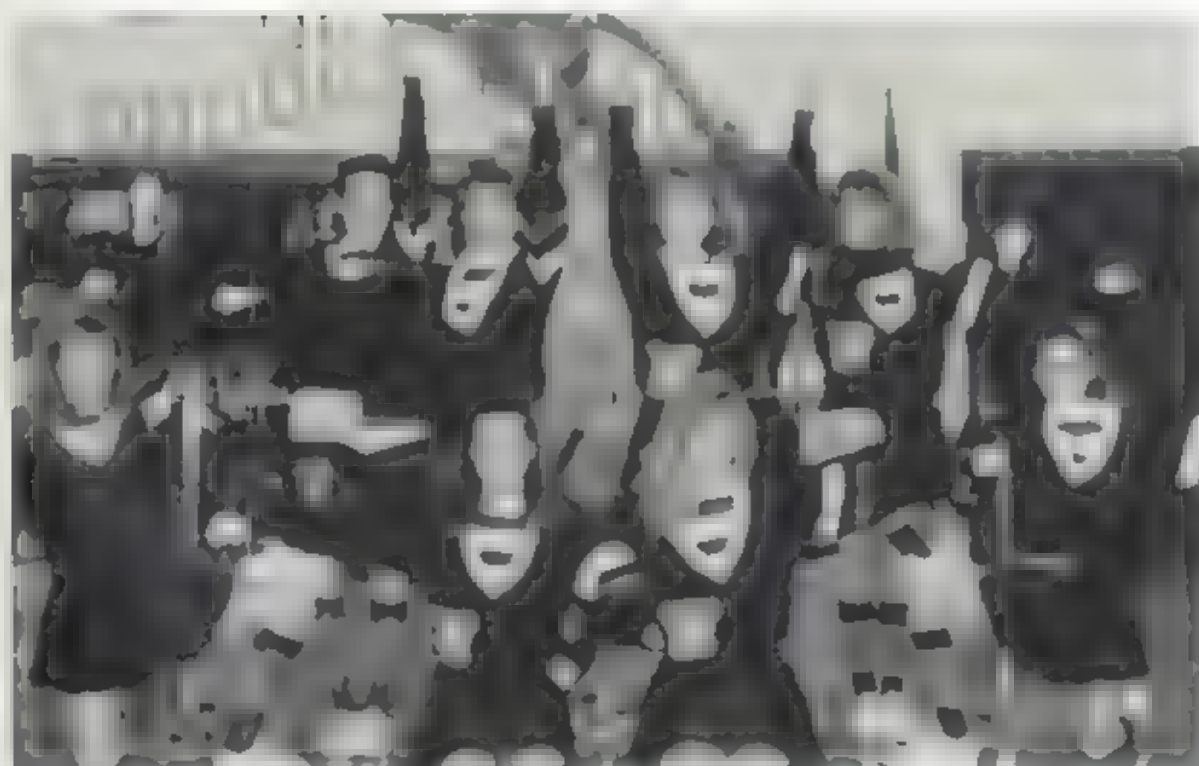

The girls spent their summer in both competition and regular practices. During the school year they worked out during both 4B and in five months of competition practice. West students were amazed at their crispness, agility, and new moves. You were also sure to see the cheerleaders marching halls and performing the victory song or leading a good Pep assembly. The cheerleaders attended camp at the U to gear up for the year.

Their greatest challenge was blending into the one competition squad. Sponsor Susie Thomas brought two coaches on board for this, Kristen Doane and Dennis Walker, both former West cheerleaders. This one large squad took first runner up at the U NCA camp and went on to take third in the Rocky Mountain Regionals in November. This led to a national bid.

Nationals Call Cheerleaders Proud

It was on to Orlando, Florida and the National High School Cheerleading Competition! On February 26 the girls flew from the Salt Lake Airport with a farewell from E-Board and other friends.

The next day, after a 7 a.m. rehearsal at Sea World, the squad performed their best routine ever on stage in front of cameras and a large audience. They were first up and every pyramid and stunt was executed with experience and talent. One could tell the girls were having fun by the expressions of pure enthusiasm on their faces. And the judges liked them too, ranking the West cheerleaders eighteen in the nation!

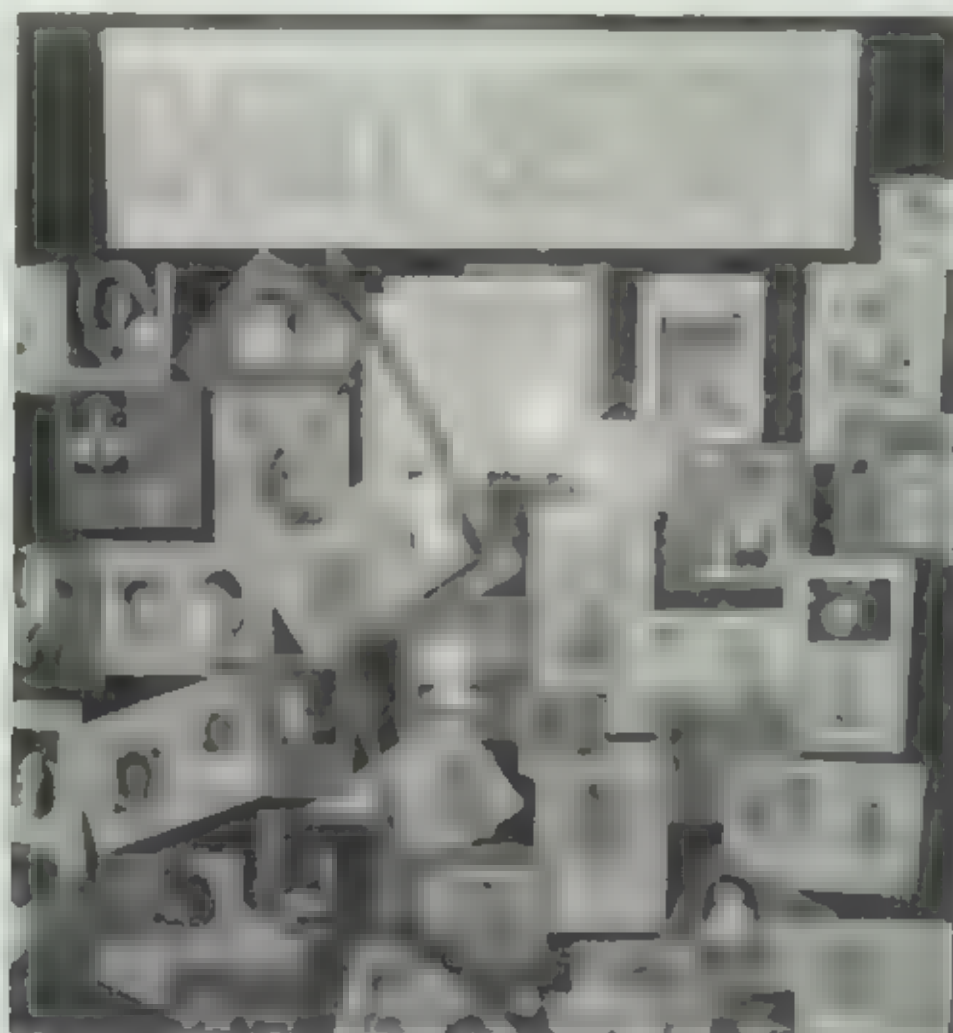

The girls went on to take full advantage of their trip to Florida. After the panther met Shamoo, they saw the exhibits at Sea World. Then it was on to Disney World and the Epcot Center where they spent a day at each to see the fabulous attractions and to ride some exciting rides. A kick-off to the whole experience was an authentic medieval dinner where they cheered on their champion Green Knight in competition as they ate Cornish hen with their hands. Other time was spent at the Kennedy Space Center, deep sea fishing, hot tubbing, and sunning with a spirited finale at Wet N' Wild Water Park.

A year of good memories!

Drama and Improv Talent in the Making

West's acting students delivered examples of their talents through improvisation's Self, Inc. and through Drama Club.

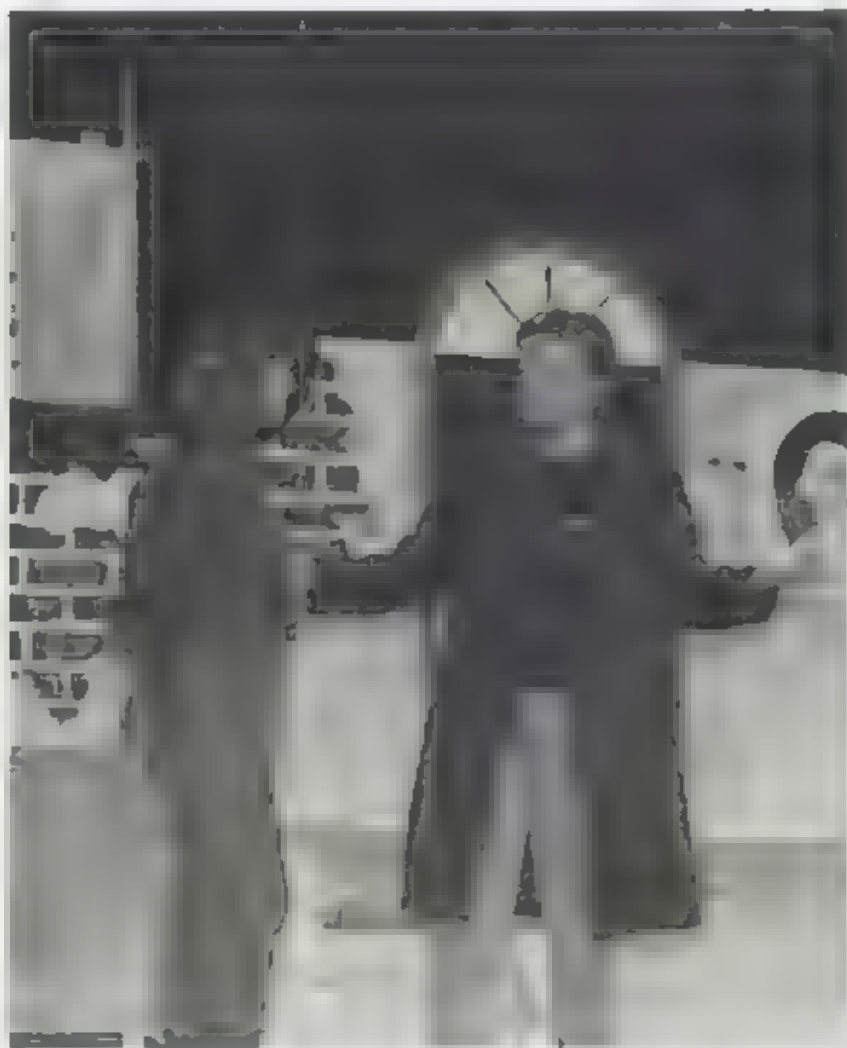

Self, Inc. mainly took their performances on the road covering subjects such as drug and alcohol abuse, child abuse, teen pregnancy and teen suicide. Traveling to Utah schools to put on shows for students of all ages, the actors portrayed the problems and difficulties people may face in life. They were especially trained to be counselors at a week long summer camp.

Along with sponsor Lori Hargraves, Self, Inc. traveled to Los Angeles and Washington, D.C. While there they attended acting conventions and gave stellar performances themselves.

Cindy Hunt directed the Drama Club which initiated a matinee performance for the student body of their first production Up the Down Staircase, starring Willie Saxton and Angie VanWyngaarden. Student comments were "funny," "real," "dramatic." There were good audiences for all performances.

For funds to embellish their program, Drama Club even put on a generic stomp. Then there was the musical Little Mary Sunshine for which scores of students vied for parts, with Peter Bell and Rachelle Blair as leads. Drama combined with music man Richard Togerson for this second success of the year.

Dancers Take a Bite of the Apple

Dance Company began the year with one thought in mind to be the best! It was under the leadership of President Melynda Bowers, Vice President Debi Rand, secretary Natalie Thorne and senate rep Tracy Scott. The new advisor Leslie France, with her vast ability and knowledge of dance, brought some new styles besides just jazz to this group. They worked with tap, ballet, modern and even experimented with new choreography techniques. At the April dance concert members performed 15 to 20 pieces, primarily student choreographed.

This group needed money too and earned $2,000 from a rummage sale. They also raffled off a chauffeured limosine to the Homecoming Dance. The money helped send ten girls and their advisor to New York City.

They attended the Broadway play The Starlight Express at the Gershwin Theater and took classes at Alvin Ailey, Martha Graham and NickiRoais/Louis studios. They saw the sights of New York, such as the Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, World Trade Center, the Lincoln Center of Performing Arts, and St. Patrick's Cathedral. Of course, they found time to go shopping.

As Melynda Bowers said, "I learned a lot about responsibility and working with a big group. It was an honor to be in it and to know Leslie

Melodies Blend And Harmonize

Practice, practice and more practice! Four ensemble classes were made up of students from the marching and concert bands and they worked on perfecting their individual instrumental ability. Students expanded their performance on various musical pieces.

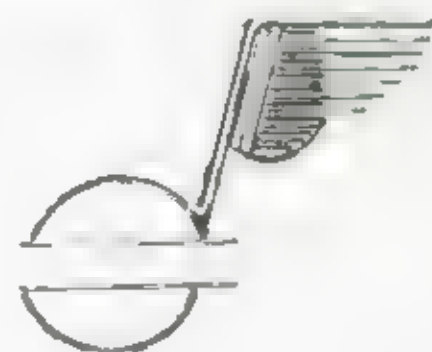

One ensemble class was percussion, which consisted of the drums, cymbals, xylophones, triangle and bell. Next was the brass, trumpets, saxophones, tubas, trombones and mellaphones. The woodwind ensemble had clarinets, flutes and oboes, and lastly, the string ensemble consisted of the violins, cello, violas and bass.

Music students were instructed by Mr. Gordon Andrus to be precise on notes, timing and rhythm. They could use their skills to perform in school concerts, to be in the pep band, concert band, the marching band or just for their individual satisfaction.

Brian Bruner, member of the woodwind ensemble summed it up by saying, "The class helped me to increase my knowledge of my musical instrument."

Splitting into special ensembles allowed the concentration students needed.

Tuning Up For Sounds and Lights

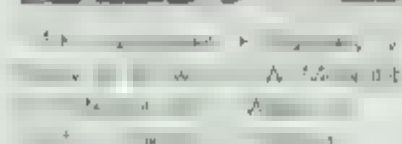

"Structural and theatrical crew of the theatre," said Robert Peterson, advisor of the sound and light crew. "We are not just the stage crew, but we are now called the technical theatre class." They had much to offer the performing arts of the school. Anything performed on the stage or in the fieldhouse, old gym, etc. was done by them. These guys and gals were in charge of sound, light and props, not an easy task. Many crew members would stay after school long hours to get the job done and done right.

One reward was that many crew members were asked to do jobs outside of school on a contract.

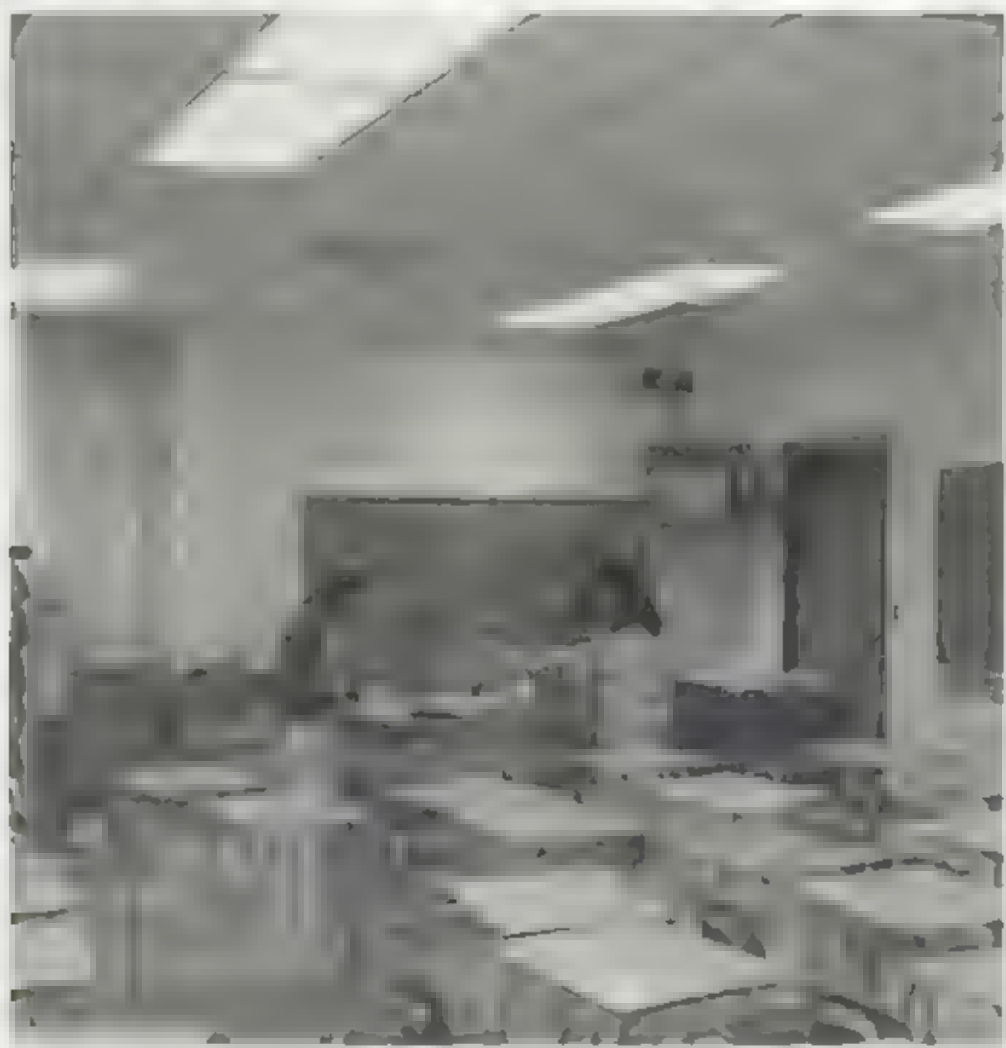

The pleasing sounds of the musical techniques of the orchestra could be heard through the hall of the basement of West High. These musical talents were achieved by each student and combined by Mr. Andrus. The orchestra was made up of the violins, cellos, bass, oboes, flutes and clarinets. And practice was the key to their overwhelming sounds.

Each year the orchestra built itself up by performing for the school at winter and spring concerts as well as performing in competitions, including region, in which they did very well and always placed.

Orchestra was a culture experience for all.

Newspaper staff members busily work on an upcoming issue of the Red and Black

Red and Black Giving Us the News

Red & Black was rated the best school newspaper in Utah and came in second in a nationwide competition held by the American Scholastic Press Association.

The staff consisted of fourteen who brought the news and recapped important events to West. Each year before school they went to a pre-publication seminar at sponsor Bob Larsen's cabin where they made important newspaper decisions for the year.

Due to skyrocketing printing costs and budget problems, the newspaper took longer to produce that they'd have liked. Staffers put articles on a Macintosh disc, took it to the U's Law School where they used a laser printer and from there to press at

Salt Lake Times

"We try to be responsive to the news in the school that affects and interests the students. We have never shied away from tackling controversial issues and we enjoy hearing student response through letters to the editor," said Mr. Larsen.

Editor Saranya Suddhi-phayak said, "Though we are both involved in the happenings of West, Red & Black is different from WHTV because as a monthly newspaper we go more in depth and address more serious issues."

And for how many years has the Red & Black reported the life and times of West? The staff has copies from as early as WWI and has covered West since about 1900.

Watch The Birdie Yearbooks Do Last

A group of dedicated, hard-working and exasperating students made up the wonderful organization of the 1987-88 Panther staff. It consisted of copywriters, photographers, typists, a business manager, editors and a sponsor working together day by day to put the whole together in one 212 page book.

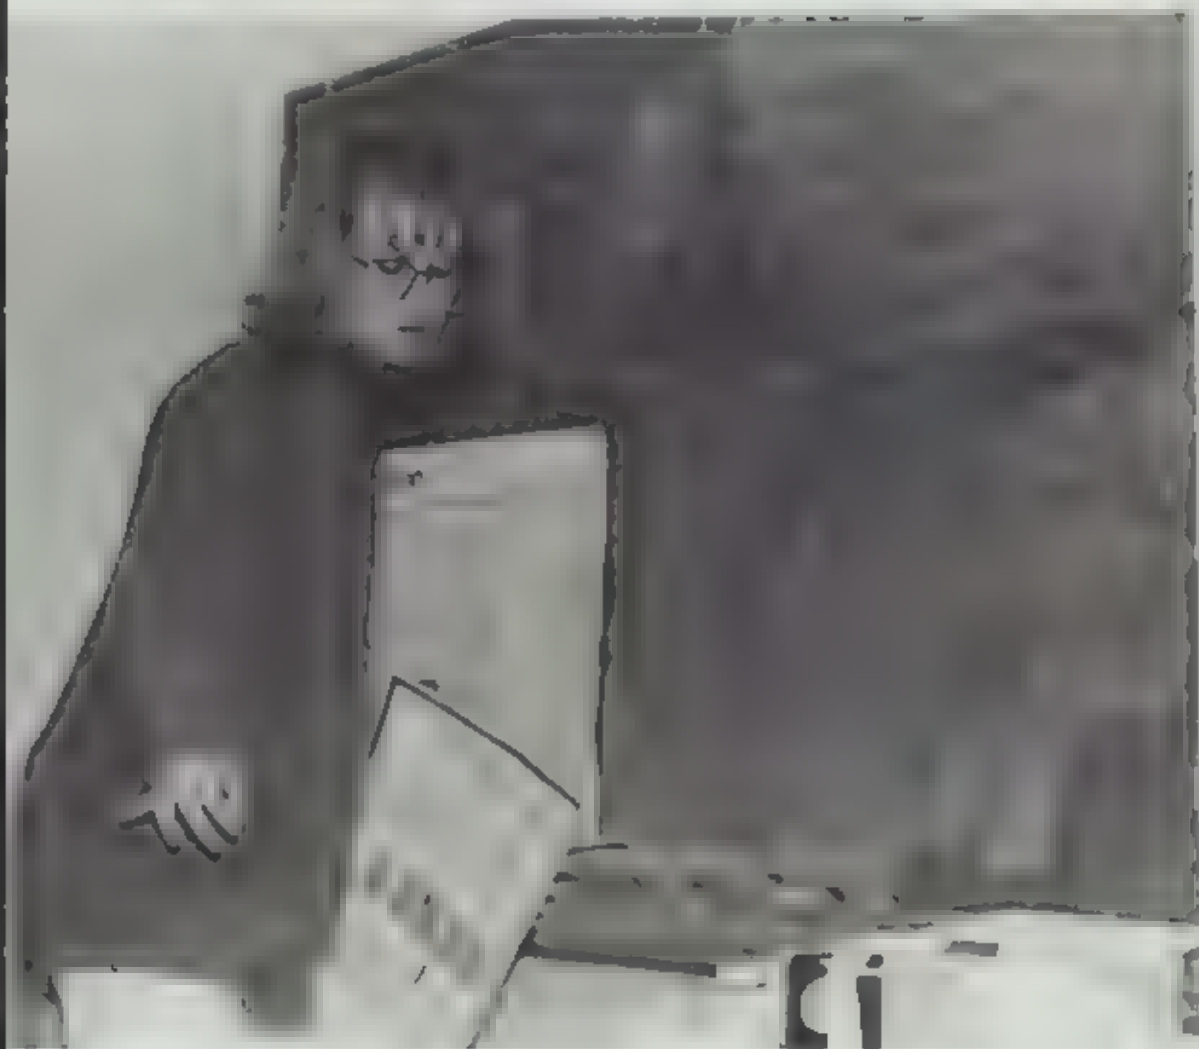

What made their job especially challenging was having to be done with the yearbook by March. Staff members ran around frantically to meet deadlines and to compensate for mistakes and mishaps. Two rolls of club photos were lost due to temperature problems with a camera. Copy would be too long or not long enough. Typists got sick and others had to fill in.

Missy Dodge and Stacy Erickson got an early start on the new book by going to Herff Jones Yearbook Camp at Utah State in August. Tonya Baker joined them for the photography sessions. Missy was runner up in the body copy for the camp yearbook. While there they came up with this year's lively theme and peppy cover. Soon Michelle Ford, copy editor, found out what it meant to write lots and lots. Donald Dunn was always on the phone making deals to sell ads, while calm Corey Hess kept the dark room running smoothly.

Putting out the yearbook was a fun job because staff members felt they had their fingers on the pulse of the school.

Editor Missy Dodge writes firm directions on the assignment board. Do this "unless the ed's say otherwise." Deadlines were brutal.

Starting Off the Weekend right

Every Friday, the studentbody was greeted by a newscast produced by the WHTV news crew and their leader Mr. Prince. This was an informative and often entertaining glimpse of student life and activities.

The news crew was made up of twelve members, and Mr. Prince. Eight members were on the beginning crew, and four were advanced. These thirteen people worked many hours to produce the news. Some reports were easier than others. A student may have invested three to four hours for a one minute segment. Each fifteen minute broadcast took all week to produce, and many students worked during lunch and after school.

The subjects that we saw on WHTV news ranged from completely ridiculous to thought provoking editorials. Mr. Prince always encouraged his students to do serious quality work.

Some activities that the news crew was involved in were producing a nationally televised orange juice music video and several public relations videos. It was amazing what they could do with a low budget and little equipment. The news was always an excellent display of originality. It was an exciting way to keep the studentbody informed about happenings in the school and community.

Michelle Morrison, Mr. Prince, and Saranya Sudaraphavak stop to enjoy their afternoon.

Printed Words Give Satisfaction

Who were the creative consultants of West High? Who had a handle on writing careers? Westwinds!

Westwinds was a class led by Carma Owen, as well as the publisher of the literary magazine delivered to its subscribers the last day of school.

The magazine consisted of poetry, short stories and illustrations. With the theme "The Next Horizon" editors Liz Watson and Stacy Martin, along with staff members and Carma Owen, the tedious job of sifting through contributions began with a contest.

The contest was open to all West students to compose their own literature for the magazine. A most twenty-five cents was the entry fee. If accepted, the author's work was printed in the publication.

Editing, typing, laser printing were then required to put the whole magazine together. All of this work, though, brought fantastic rewards.

"Writers chosen for Westwinds usually came by recommendations," stated Mrs. Owen. "We were more of an open form this year for experiments with writing."

The thrill of seeing one's work in print cannot be matched, agreed the writers.

Business Booms for Sharp Students

DECA gave students pursuing a career in business a chance to learn the skills needed for their careers in a fun and educational way.

The students participated in many competitions, such as the state competition at Weber State in Ogden during March. They used their imaginations and creative ideas at the advertising sales competition at the Layton Hills Mall in April. They tested their skills against about 7,000 high school students at the National DECA competition in Salt Lake City.

DECA was also involved in worthwhile projects, the most important of which was their February stamp with all the proceeds going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

DECA members gained business experience running the school store in conjunction with the Grub Club.

Officers were co-presidents Tracy Scott and Shan Ingelby; vice-presidents Lisa Burns, Tracy McKone and Shelly Peterson; secretary Ryan Marchant; and publicity Shelly Rasmussen. With the sponsorship of Jim Powell, DECA had a fun, challenging, and exciting year. Why, they even had socials such as a trip to the 49th Street Galleria.

Future Leaders Learn Skills Now

FBLA was made up of the Future Business Leaders of America. Its purpose had been to bring business and education in a positive working relationship. Most club members learned important facts to survive in the business world.

The leaders for FBLA were president, Gina Gregovich, VP of Publicity, Cynthia Gallegos; VP of Activities, Bobby Harden; VP of Membership/Fundraisers, Tasha Worthington; Historian, Vanessa Jordan; Secretary, Angela Williams; and the FBLA advisor, Kelle Jones.

Their fundraiser was a start to their activities and helped pay dues of only $6.50. They shared the opening social at the 49th Street Galleria, with DECA and had an ice cream social. There was a closing social too. Members also listened to guest speakers and learned about business topics.

They participated in the Homecoming Fence Decoration, a bowling contest with DECA, a vocational and educational and Free Enterprise week, a service project, sponsored a guessing contest, and held a Carnival pop shop.

They attended the Western Regional Leadership Conference and the State Leadership Conference, where they were able to express all that they learned.

At the closing social, the members thought back on their activities and felt good about the goals they reached.

VICA sponsored training in all areas as well as written and hands-on skill competition. State competition was held at Salt Lake Community College where scholarships were awarded. District Competition at West included 10 events.

West came in 3rd place with Craig Perry placing on top. Co-sponsor Mr. Robert Peterson stated that VICA was, "A way for a student to get free education after high school."

Home Economic Related Occupations equaled HERO, the occupation arm of FHA. Sponsor Alyce Shiba stated that HERO was, "To get girls thinking that they can have a business in their own home. This is called the cottage industry."

Projects included free enterprise, prototype and market survey. Some of their finished projects were a Santa Claus suit, tote bags, locker organizers and hobby horses for the Western Round-Up. "Earning while learning," was how Mrs. Shiba put it. HERO also sewed costumes for school plays.

During sewing class, Stacy Martin works diligently and with a steady hand to complete her project on time.

Debaters At West Speak Out Politically!

Resolved. The United States Government should adopt a policy to increase political stability in Latin America. That was the resolution of this year's West High Debate team. Various members of Debate argued about this topic all year long as well as participating in other events, such as Lincoln-Douglas Debate and Student Congress. Coach Todd Lunt took his young team to the top

Waking up as early as 5 am and coming home as late as 12 midnight, it was obvious that these outspoken people spent long hours besides sacrificing their Saturdays. Debaters were hard-working and dedicated and this paid off over the long winter months

Close Up On Government Systems

The debating was intense between the countries of the Salt Lake City, Murray and Jordan School Districts April 22nd and 23rd when the Model UN held its conference.

The Model UN was exactly what it sounded like—a mock or model of the real United Nations. Students of all the high schools in their conference were assigned countries to represent. They then formed resolutions concerning the political issues that confronted their countries to submit for discussion during the conference.

"It was great learning about Turkey in depth," said Kristen Deem, who was part of the social and cultural committee. Mr. Jay Griffin was the sponsor.

Each year for one week in the fall, qualifying 11th and 12th graders traveled to Washington D.C. to see it Close Up. The Close Up kids participated in seminars, luncheons and lectures given by lobbyists, senators and representatives—the people making decisions about the US today.

This was only one part, as the students also visited museums, monuments, and saw the Constitutions and Declaration of Independence.

They also toured Williamsburg, VA, restored to retain its historical flavor. On their list was the actual tavern where Washington and Jefferson made plans to begin our country and the House of Burgess, scene of Patrick Henry's liberty or death speech.

Flexing the Brain Builds Muscles

It was a battle of mental muscle February 18-20 when Mr. Boston, Mrs. Robertson, Derek Jentzsch, Kristin Deem, Lowell Wilson, Chris Rieber, Hoa La, Rosemary Lloyd, Richard Colby, and Shane Keener went to St. George to compete in the Utah Academic Decathlon.

Students from 22 Utah high schools took tests in math, social sciences, fine arts, biological sciences, language arts, economics and wrote essays and gave speeches and were interviewed. The finale was a super quiz for each team on the history of flight.

West's team saw Wilson win a silver in math and Jentzsch a silver in language arts and a bronze in math. Park City won over all but West looked forward to making them nervous next year!

Mrs. Robertson also coached the Math Counts team which took second place in region competition after attending an engineers' banquet. The four person team of ELP students went to the State Meet on March 26th held at the U of U. Ultimately, four of the sixty 7th and 8th graders competing represented Utah in Washington, D.C. at Nationals.

The National Honor Society was full of academic champions. A member had an accumulative GPA of 3.5 for 9th and 10th grade and maintained a 3.5 while in the club. Also, four honors classes were required.

The Honor Society was led by President Mark Steed; Kristine Foxley, activities director, secretary Rosemary Lloyd; and sponsor Mrs. Marilyn Lafferty. Some activities were going to a symphony, seeing Nutcracker at Christmas, and visiting the art museum. They also met two times a month to plan and socialize.

The Academic Letter Sweater was also awarded to academic achievers in their junior year. Recipients had to have a 3.75 GPA for their freshman and sophomore years, a minimum of eight honors classes, and the completion of a service project of at least sixteen hours.

Principal Harold Trussel was the sponsor of this program. The sweater was a sign of work and effort of the highest order. Businesses and patrons of West High contributed so that students could receive these white sweaters with their red and black emblems free.

Both the National Honor Society and the Academic Letter Sweater represented the school of scholars and champions.

Political Life And West Mix Well

Our representatives worked really hard to keep all the students informed throughout the year," said chairperson Jennifer Potter, of her Student Council reps.

At the beginning of each month, the representatives from the 1st red classes would report to Jennifer to get the plans, such as stumps, contests, activities for the following month, and then relate them back to their classes.

Although information about the school was their primary concern, Student Council started the Arive Alive America program dealing with the prevention of drugs and alcohol, and they sponsored a door decorating contest, which Julie Plaga won.

Each year, for each state the America Auxillary holds a six day political conference where representatives from all participating high schools get a taste of political life.

Girls State was at SUSC, from West went Jennifer Potter, Sarranya Suddhipiyak and Missy Dodge. Representing West at USU Boy's State were Lowell Wilson, Greg Takenaka, David Shaw and Mark Steed.

Each day, the "officials" had political meetings, caucuses and seminars.

Sarranya was elected state Treasurer, and the Governor was David Shaw.

Flying High by Just saying "NO!"

"Just Say No," was the common phrase heard by West High Peer Leadership Team. This ten-member team planned various activities and skits to perform at elementary schools, such as Newman, Jackson, Whittier and Franklin. Their message was to say no to drug and alcohol abuse. Our PLT also trained teams from Northwest and Glendale. Overall, PLT worked with over 300 elementary schools.

West has four foreign language clubs. These are Spanish, French, Latin and German. Each of these clubs help students learn more about their languages and cultures.

Spanish Club president was JoAnn Ortiz. Mr. Thompson wants to get more students interested in the foreign exchange program.

Latin was led by Mrs. Hopper. First semester officers were Shane Keener, president, Whitney Fredrickson, vice-pres, and Emily Lin, secretary. Second semester officers were Whitney Fredrickson pres., Rob Leishman vice-pres, and Emily

Joyous Voices Sing In Harmony

The A'Capella choir was made up of ninety students sophomores, juniors and seniors. The members had to try out in the spring of last year. The choir performed in malls and schools during the Christmas season. They were especially busy before Valentine's Day, when they delivered singing telegrams to students and the community. They also performed at Bryant and Northwest for the transition assemblies and at various elementary schools.

A'Capella was directed by Mr. Richard Torgerson, with Charlie Barndt as president, Rocky Catenzaro as vice-president and Allison Walker as secretary.

Chorale was made up of eighteen members from A'Capella. The officers were Jenny Stanley president, Heidi Hanks vice-president, and Debbie Burgess secretary and treasurer.

Chorale performed along with A'Capella in many performances during Christmas. They put on a Christmas concert with A'Capella, the orchestra and concert band.

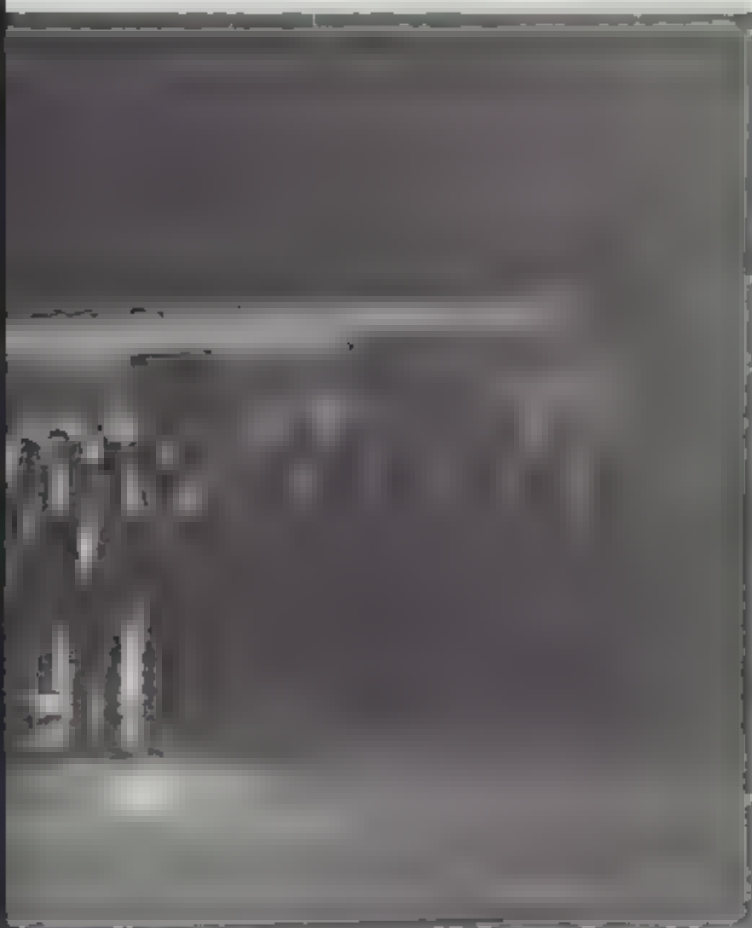

Chorale not only sang but also had action to some of their songs. They were a talented group and were very good representatives of West.

A'Capella and Chorale also put on a Spring Concert and an open house during second block.

Young Voices Tone With a Sound of Glee

During 3rd and 4th block songs of praise were heard among the halls of West High. A small group of girls made up the girl's chorus, a class taken by those who wanted to know the fundamentals of singing and to maybe prepare for the step up- A'Capella. These young voices were tuned through the year to perform some special numbers at the end of the year at the Spring Concert.

Along with the Girl Chorus came the young voices of the ELP chorus taught during 4th block. These youngsters were given the opportunity to have a special chorus since A'Capella was not open to them. The ELP chorus members, with much help from Mr. Torgerson, worked hard to train their voices to show West High student body one of the many talents they have. The chorus consisted of boys and girls from the Extended Learning Program, who wished to participate. It performed a few choice songs at the Christmas concert in December and at the Spring concert giving the student body a new and exciting experience.

Starting Out Right Future Homemakers

FHA was busy all year expanding its horizons and helping others. It consisted of 50 paid members and everyone in home economics class was a member also.

This group started out being successful in the summer of 1987. President Connie Livingston and sponsor Mrs. Delores Thompson went back to Washington D.C. to compete in national contests. And it's true, these Future Homemaker Partners were led by a well-qualified person. Connie Livingston was chosen Secretary of the State FHA.

FHA members attended conventions at BYU and in Ogden to learn more about teen leadership and problems.

Later in the year, West High FHA hosted a peace-week. Students of East, Highland, and South were invited to a luncheon and tour of West. The group also took time out for ice cream and pizza parties.

West High held the state competition in April. It consisted of competing in food preparation, child care, and sewing plus job interviews. This was a high honor for FHA members to have.

Other officers were: V.P. Rosemary Lloyd, Secretary Stacie Neilson, Treasurer Heidi Hanks, Historian Kristen Deem, Peer Education Edith Pritchett, News Janine Larsen, Lori Hemingway, Tina Lepore, and Tifani Larsen.

Bands Builds Proud Tradition

No where did the pride and spirit grow more than from the West High Marching Panthers. This group of dedicated high working students and volunteers marched their way to the top.

The year of hard work and effort began at Band Camp, where the 1987 field show for competition all came together. From sunrise to dusk the band members pushed forward, to make the field show a success.

When the school year began, every black day after school meant practice, practice, practice. Equipment was set and reset by propies, who were new additions to the band. Musical numbers were performed again and again, steps were marched and marched over, until perfection was reached.

Finally, after a long practice season, and endless hours in the field, competitions. These included Price, Pocatello, Nevada, BYU, Murray and West Jordan.

The percussion group was beating its way to victory, winning three first place trophies, and along with the talented Color Guard, the intensity of the brass section, and the able leadership of the instructors the band left the audience stunned.

Mr. Andrus, Director, said "Success comes as a result of paying the price."

The color guard worked hard to add its precision and flash to routines.

Summer practices were critical and lengthy. Professional quality takes work.

Energy, Talent Caring Esprit

This year's Esprit was composed of talented and spirited freshmen girls who did their best to support their school.

With leadership of president Kristen Case, vice president Monique O'Neal, secretary Chastity Corona, and historian Sara Black, the year was filled with neat and exciting ideas.

Their new advisor Leslie France made sure that girls performed interesting novelty, jazz and military dances at halftime football and basketball games. They first delighted football fans with their novelty Betty Boop routine taught by Lisa Tsutsul, the Oestana's vice president Lisa learned the routine at the United Spirit Association Drill Camp at Utah State University in July and brought it home especially for Esprit. They also proved their talents at the freshman talent assembly, rocking out to "The Way You Make Me Feel" by Michael Jackson.

Cheerleading-type outfits were a new addition to this year's Esprit. The white skirt with their red and white sweaters and red jackets really made the group stand out.

The word Esprit meant a talented, exciting, energetic group of girls who spent their time dancing, cheering, and having fun.

With their class behind them, Esprit frosh get ready to present the cheer for the Spirit yelling contest.

Participating in hillbilly days were Chastity Corona and Dawn Breems. Esprit girls were quick to support school activities, such as these two are doing when they went to have their costumes judged.

The girls wowed 'em at the freshman talent assembly as first one half and then the other half of the group danced on the stage.

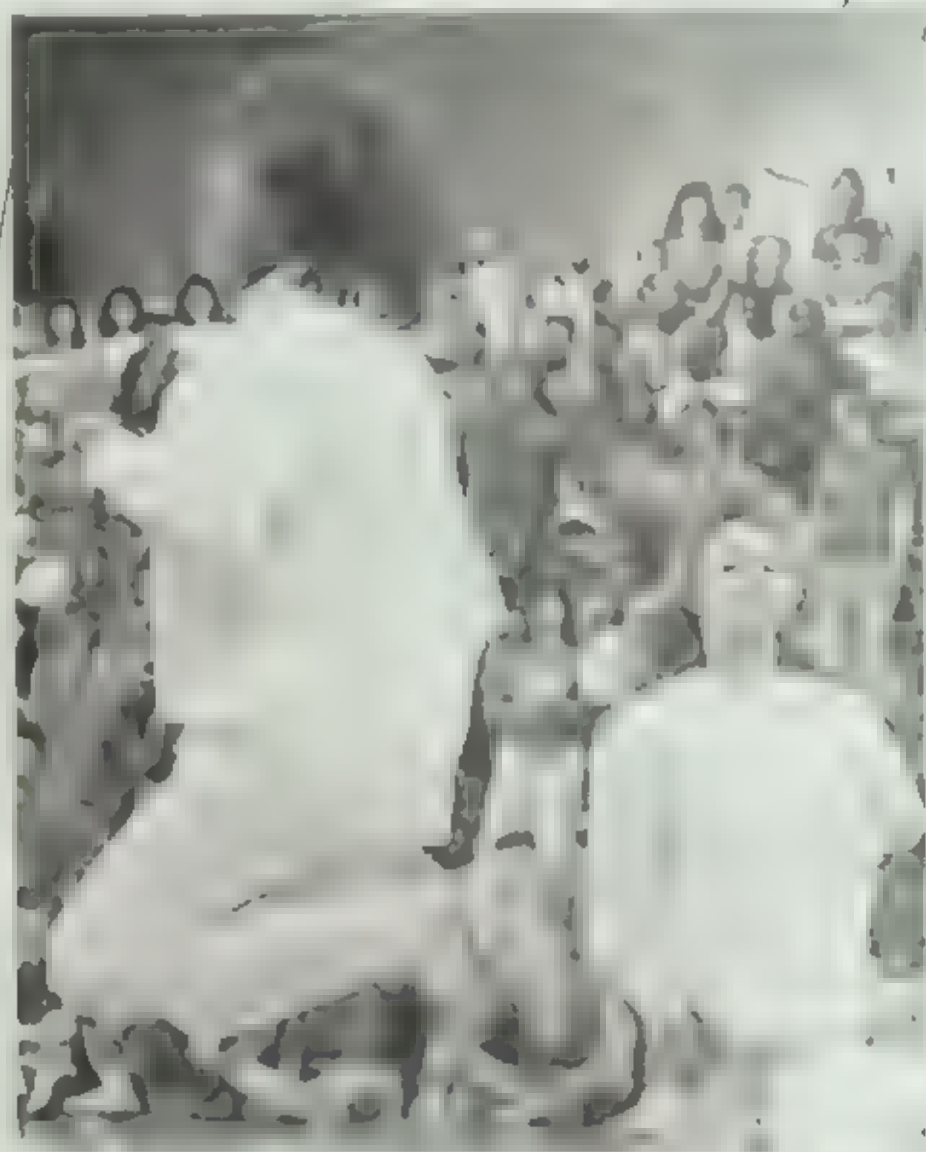

Esprit jump ropers took a tie for first at the Spirit Bow as nine of them managed to get it together.

Busy Esprit girls supported the cheerleaders at the Rocky Mountain regional. Their good luck cheer made the difference according to the cheerleaders.

Perfection And Oestana Precision

This year's drill team dazzled the student body with their new techniques and with the emense talent that the girls possessed

With president, Carolina Gallardo, vice-president, Lisa Tsutsul, secretary Melinda Harris, historian Kellie Connary, and advisor Leslie France, the girls were urged to give it their all and perform at the highest level of expectation

During the summer, they attended the summer camp in Logan at Utah State University. They spent the rest of their summer performing in three different parades

At the Cyprus invitational, they received fifth place in the military division. They practiced for about ten hours a week to prepare for the region drill team competition held at Murray High in February. There they took 1st in prop, 1st in novelty, 2nd in military, and 3rd in dance. These winnings guaranteed them 1st place in the 3A division. This was the first year ever.

At state competition at Weber High School, the drill team won 1st place in prop and 5th in dance.

As the year came to an end their memories of the year's accomplishments, and their victories in competition still lingered on.

BAM! Panther Champions

West truly had a football team that was bursting with talent! The Varsity was ranked number one in the pre-season by the Salt Lake Tribune. With thirteen starters returning it wasn't hard to see why.

Practice started at the beginning of August. The team worked hard through two weeks of "two-a-days" in August.

Pre-season games were very successful. West beat Pleasant Grove 17 to 7 and East 40 to 10. Gary Perkins returned a punt eight yards for a touchdown. Steve Lilly, Sioppe Hafoka and Abel Salazar also rushed for touchdowns. Against Kearns, Demont Defa and Sioppe Hafoka scored to defeat Kearns 14-10.

During season play the record was 4-2. Against Granite, Demont Defa returned the opening kickoff for a touchdown. West ended up winning 43-15. On Homecoming against Tooele, West won 26-6. Against Judge, West played fabulously with substitute quarterback Derek Schrieter leading the team to a 28-7 victory. West lost to Murray 49-44, when Murray came from behind in the final 34 seconds. South was the victim in the final season game 26-12.

West finished second in Region Six and lost in a state playoff game against Mountain Crest, 13-18. Although the team started to come back, there just wasn't enough time.

Mountain Crest went on to

The sophomore team also had a great season. They finished the season with five wins and four losses. They beat Pleasant Grove, Granite, Tooele, Murray, and South. They lost a very upsetting game to East in overtime and were also defeated by Kearns, Jordan, and Judge

Coach Rod Miner stated every fans observations

"They were a typical West High team. Full of Pride. They learned from their mistakes and prepared for future West High School championships."

Panthers looked forward to an even greater football challenge as the school gained enrollment and ranked up to 4-A size. No one doubted for a moment that our athletes were up to the competition

Winning For West

The teams at West were always pulling to be the best they could be. They worked toward the same goal, victory. If victory eluded the teams at times, there were still the common elements of good playing and good sportsmanship that marked a West High team.

During the fall, if it was not the football team, then it was the volleyball team or the golf team which thrilled the fans with its skills. Girls' tennis and cross country went to regions. All teams saw competition beyond regular fun games and matches.

In wintertime, basketball, swimming, wrestling and gymnastics had some great teams. They also showed West's unity with the Utah athletic scene in general by hosting wrestling and gymnastics invitational, for instance. Then there were the spring teams of baseball, softball, track and boys' tennis which gave their all to bring West closer to number one.

Not only did the teams have common elements but many students played more than one sport. Many athletes devoted much of their year to sports. Even within one sport, individuals played on both JV and varsity teams.

The teams at West were dedicated and determined. They proved that West is truly number one.

Practice, practice, and still more practice! Playing football is tough, but for the glory it is worth it!

Knocking Those Pins Over the Rest

The Bowling Team of 1987-1988 truly knocked all the others down this year. A non-stop team was what it took, and they bowled their way to victory many times.

Although bowling took one's individual skills, having a team behind you really boosted the scores. Braving the lonely lanes, and conquering the pins in the distance before them took a lot of concentration. Experience is helpful, knowledge is required and by putting all those measures together added up to a great play. These were all the ingredients that make the bowling team a winner.

The girls team is very good. Laura Jensen had the highest average with a 171.7, Michelle Whyte was 2nd with a 149.3, and Becky Bohman was 3rd with a 126.3 average. Laura Jensen also had the highest game.

The girl's team won region for the sixth year in a row.

In the boys, Kevin Haslam had the highest game and highest average, with Mike Boyd and Tony Benich close behind. The boy's team took 2nd in region.

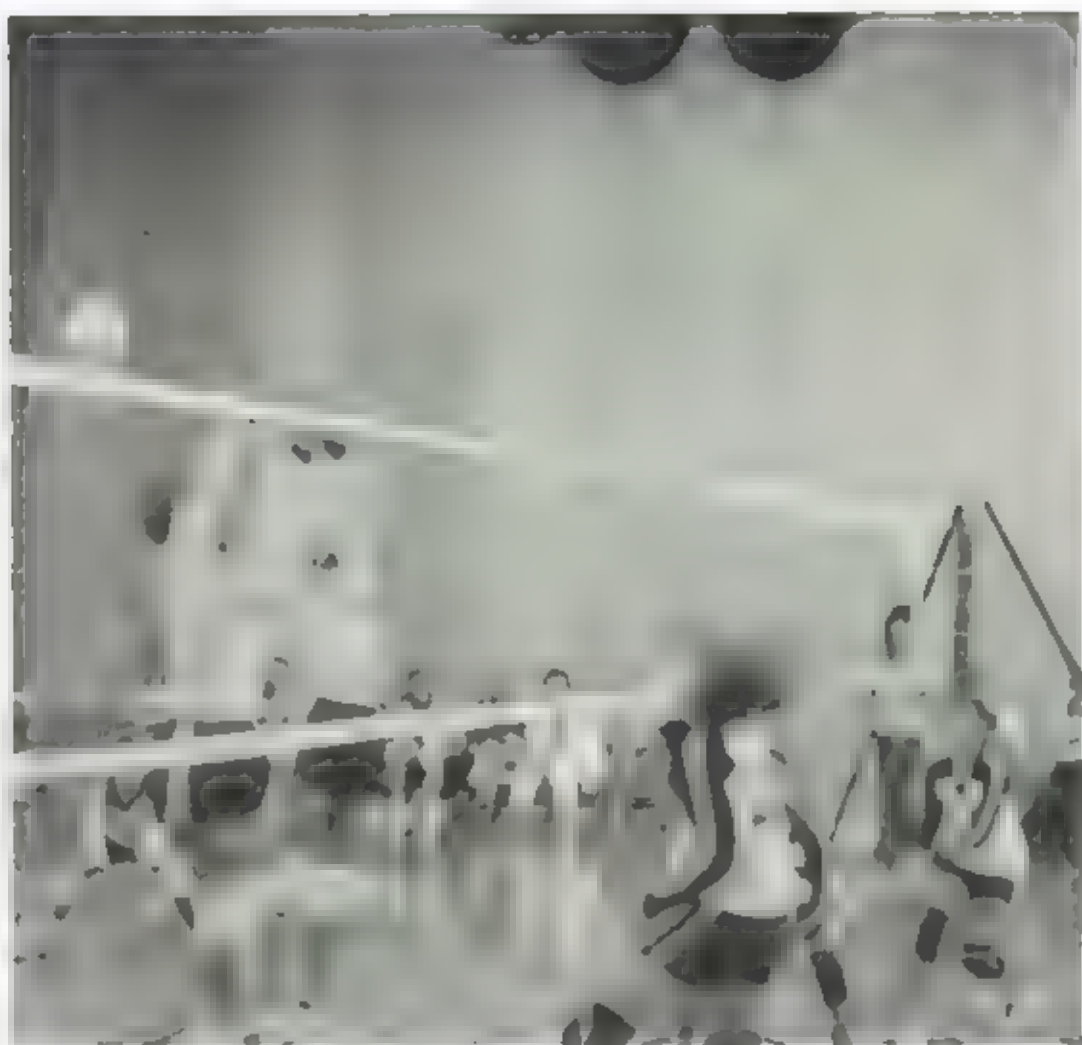

Mr. Ralph Gatherum has been the bowling coach for thirteen years at West High School. He has a tireless, outgoing coach with the responsibility of psyching the entire team for a tremendous game. How did Ralph Gatherum feel about the kid's work this year?

"This is the smartest team we've ever had. They are the Best Bowlers Around."

Jo Jensen was coach's aide. Bobbi Coleman, Laura Starks, Shawn Pickett and David Pinkney took first in the end of the year tournament.

Panthers Overpower Opponents With Ease

Amy Dillon shows the power of her serves which terrorized opponents

West's varsity volleyball team compiled an impressive record this year. While in pre-season their record was seven and seven, in league games they were nine won and only three lost for a second place finish.

They went into the State Championship held at West with high hopes. They drew Odgen and had a great start, playing with such expertise that they looked like sure winners. Problems arose and a questionable call snatched victory from the lady panthers. The panthers protested but the match was over, and the score in the books.

In State, they went on to beat South, only then to lose to Carbon.

However, the season had many rewards. Coach Jane Hughes compiled the season record book which showed that Linda Roberts made the All State Academic Team; Jenny Doane and Holly England, the 1st Team All Region; and Janet Jimenez was chosen 2nd team All Region.

The Junior Varsity team was not as fortunate and did not win this year. The new frosh/soph team fared better winning two of ten and finishing fourth in their league. Penina White was once again their coach.

Varsity player Holly England set a new team record 73 saves. Other team season records are memories from the recent past and worth mentioning: Heather Miles, 1986-87, good serves-285, Kristi Bartholomew, 1985-86, points, 183, Jenny Doane, 1986-87, assists, 251; and Lonny Richmond, 1985-87, with records in out of bounds serves, kills and blocks.

Coach Hughes along with assistant Julie Plaga expected the best.

Victory Again Team Hustles

Under the coaching of Bob Lyman, the varsity played with winning skill. Many games were close but this made them exciting to watch. Once such game was the pre-season win against East 72-66.

At the Box Elder tournament West was a strong third after two days of heavy competition. The pre-season games prepared for a season in which the team took fourth and qualified for state.

The state tournament at Weber State College the week of February 22nd gave them strong wins over Skyview and Cedar City. West placed eighth in 31. David Shaw received honorable mention from both the Deseret News and Tribune, while Jimmy Glasker made the All State second team in the News.

Team awards were given to Derek Schrieler for most assists, David Shaw, free throws and rebounds, Pedro Alvaile, defense, Alex Ellis, field goals and hustle, Jimmy Glasker, 3-point shots, Steve Fauter was chosen most improved and Rudy Gregovich received the Student Athlete Award.

Coach Lyman expressed pleasure over the team's accomplishments and was pleased with the progress of all of his players, and especially the younger players, Alex Ellis and Steve Fauter.

With the coaching ability of Randy Shreiter, Junior Varsity team members were given the pointers needed to become victorious in their games.

The JV games may not have been packed but the team had it within itself to play hard anyway, though those there cheered loudly.

The season games offered the members experience needed to develop skills and technique for future varsity play.

The sophomore team had a season filled with many exciting games. With coach Vardell Reese, the team tried its best and succeeded. Because their games were challenging, they had fun and gained the experience needed for further years of basketball.

The freshman team, with coach Mike Alvord, followed suit and did its best for themselves and for West.

All of the teams had to deal with some defeats but they recovered from these upsets to come back, try harder, and win.

Pushing, Striving Moving To The Top

The accomplishment of the Lady Panther basketball team was overwhelming. With this team's performance, they placed seventh in state. Also, the team placed third in the Clearfield tournament.

Junior Jenny Doane had a 17 point average. Amy Dillon had a 16.7 rebound average with Jenny Doane close behind at 13.8. Over the season, Janet Jimenez had 11 steals.

Jenny Doane expressed her feelings. "I feel like our team had a very successful season and we had great team work. There is a lot of room for improvement and we do expect to have a great season next year. Our team did well in the Clearfield tournament.

C Coach Jane Hughes said, "The team did very well with great basketball skills as well as great attitude. I feel this was the most well-balanced team I have ever seen. They were very confident and they were very hard working. They were very determined to win and they were very successful.

Hard work and devotion at work and in the end they will be successful.

Rookies Have Fun

A young, scrappy group of girls was the frosh/soph basketball team, coached by Lonnie Richmond, member of last year's state team. Team members were uniform in their praise of Lonnie, saying she gave equal playing time and was always supportive and enthusiastic.

Heka Salea stated that basketball was fun and they learned sportsmanship.

One of their best games was their first one against South in which they came within inches of winning. Another great game was against East. It was an exasperation game with the West women down by ten at the half. But they came back in the second half with East leading only by two. Not in the nick of time though. But the girls were happy they could work as a team.

Grunt! Building To Power

Body building was a new addition to West this year. While this activity is every bit as demanding as any sport, it operated as a club created by Steve Markham and under the advisement of Teri Warner-Chaus, herself a body builder competitor and West's gymnastics coach. The group was composed of nine people who wanted to get fit and to stay in shape.

They would meet a couple of times a month in the gymnastics gym to work out, to listen to guest speakers, to drill specific body parts, to watch videos of contests and to practice posing.

There was always the possibility of future competition for these dedicated club members as they gained information and became stronger.

Zing! Tennis Wins Again!

To start off their bouncing season, the Girls Tennis team had began with hopes and expectations of a racket of a season. Overall, the Girls Tennis took fifth in region and going on to state to get a chance of victory only to be disappointed after losing the first round.

In region, the girls' team played each school only once winning over Granite and South. Overall, in the region plays, Staci Stansbury took 5th in first singles qualifying for state while Holly Ripley took 7th in second singles. In doubles, Amy Bas- lian and Julie Steed taking 3rd in first doubles and qualifying for state, while in second double Tammy Slaughter and Bobi Coleman took 5th in region.

Boys' tennis consisted of thirteen, who practiced hard every day. Mr. Ed Thomas, who had been coaching the girls' and boys' tennis team for 22 years, felt that many of his boys would take first to fifth places, qualifying for state. He was certain that his singles would take 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, and 1st in doubles.

Hitting Their Way to the Championship

The varsity baseball team coached by Gean Piaga was strong with good balance, defense, and speed. They ended with a fairly high overall batting average.

Starting players were Paul Archuleta and Kelly Phillips as catchers, first base Jimmy Glasker and Jason Johnson; second base Dermont Defa; third base Johnny Arellano and Collin Erickson, and shortstop Matt Byrd. In the outfield were Abel Salazar, Terry Gonzales and Jason Butcher. Pitchers were Ryan Thomas, Bref Deters, Jimmy Glasker, Johnny Arellano, Abel Salazar, Terry Gonzales

Sophomore team coaches, Craig Graves and Mike Alvord, felt that team was also good this year. Some players who helped were Marc Wilson who was a pitcher, catcher, and third baseman, Brant Tidwell, outfielder, and Justin Mark, a strong hitter. Eric Butikofer, Pete Romano, Michael Tunson and David Harden also strengthened the team.

In pre-season West's varsity beat Logan and Woodcross and lost to Viewmont. During the season they expected to finish near the top in region.

Taking his turn at bat, Jason Johnson digs in while Kelly Phillips gives the sign.

PLOP! Land To Advantage

The most important part of West's golf team was its great team spirit! Members practiced every day from 1:30 to 4:00 at the Rose Park Golf Course. There, they spoke loud, joked and teased each other.

After the matches, they were tired and sometimes angry with themselves if they had not played well.

Their professional attitude toward golf and having a great coach, John Calevas, was part of what reason prepared them for the Region Tournament, where they took 2nd place with 347 points.

"This year the golf team did better than they had done in many years," said Bill Beesley. "The players from last year's team were all very experienced."

Bill Beesley led the team with the best average of 41.5.

After the Region Tournament they played the State Tournament.

"We finished our highest, 16th place in the state, better than we have in the past six years," said Coach Calevas.

Kevin Haslam, Bill Beesley and Troy Jardine had the 9th, 10th, and 13th best scores.

"We had a good team and next year the players will be the best team in the state," said Kevin Haslam with 42.3 points.

"We had a very, very good year," said Coach Calevas, all proud of his team.

Bill Beesley looks over the situation and carefully chooses a club as he continues on his winning ways.

Smash! Go Get 'Em

West High's wrestlers were a very powerful bunch, showing strength and balance. Winning 12 of 16 meets, the entire team qualified for state. Jeff Adams took sixth, David Arnold took sixth, and Robbie Leishman took second.

How did Coach Holtry feel about his powerful team?

"The team worked very hard. I feel really good about all of these scores."

Anyone who attended the wrestling meets knew the excitement of being invoiced.

Robby Barker who a wrestler himself, said "Wrestlers are awesome."

Another fan of wrestling, Brent Oscarson said, "I enjoy going to watch the wrestling team in action. We had a great team this year."

This year's meets were thrilling. Wrestlers worked hard all year and paid for their determination. Paul Archuleta suffered a concussion and was in the hospital for a few days. Jeff Adams missed a few meets because he injured his knee. The same was for Shane Atwood who injured his neck and was ordered to miss several meets until he was healed all the way. Though these three were hurt and missed some of the season, all three made it to State competition and Jeff Adams went on to place. It seemed that grim determination and pride were some of the major components of a wrestler's character.

Coach Holtry wishes Rob Leishman good luck and gives him a few pointers on his upcoming important state match.

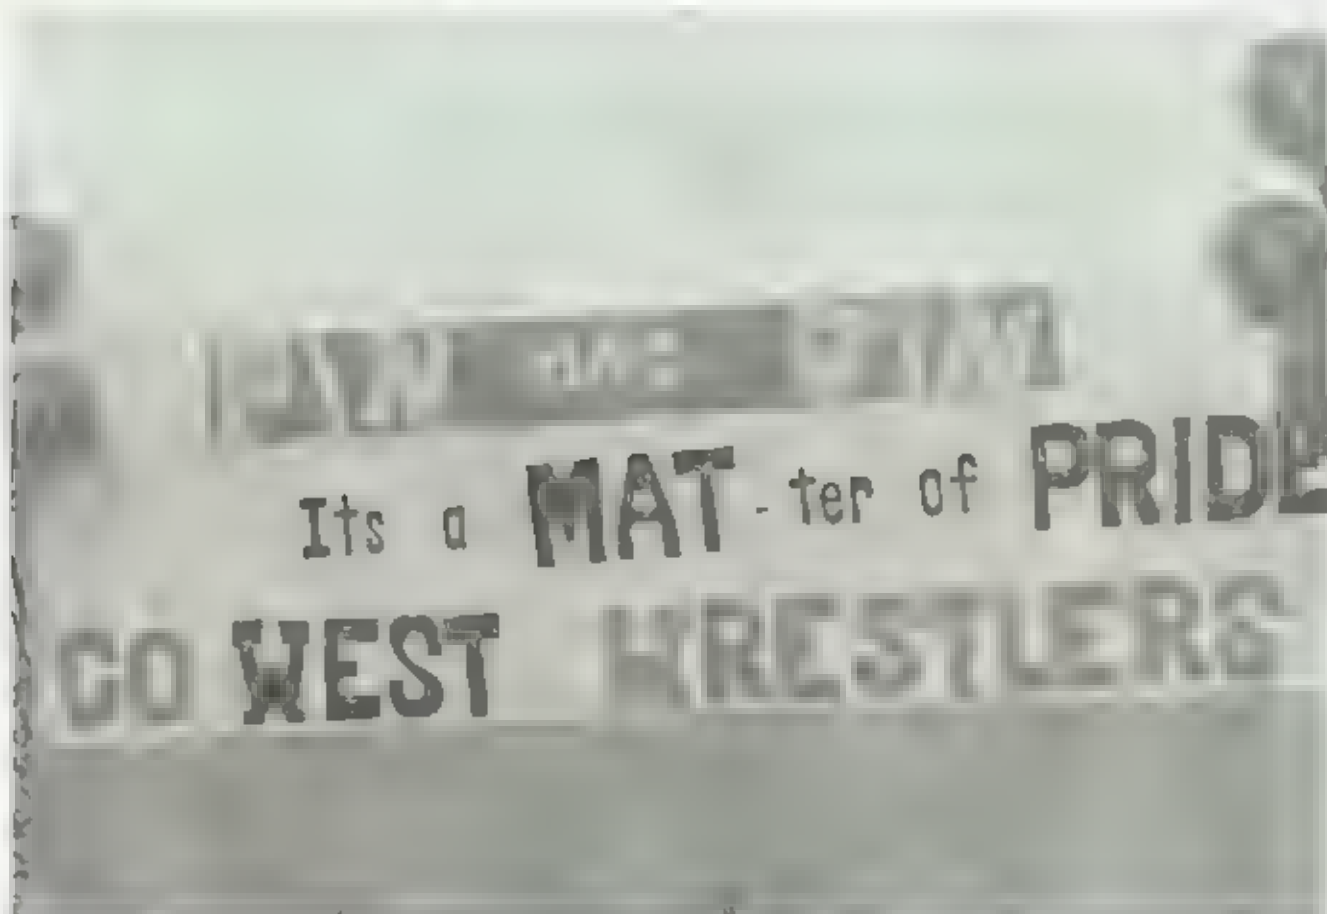

Ben Vigil tries to pin his opponent in an exciting match against the Jordan Beetdiggers.

Jeff Adams forces his opponent to the mat in an exciting match at state. Doesn't he make it look easy?

Shawn Brandon takes down his opponent in a match against Tule. While the rest of the team and coaches cheer him on.

It's a MAT-ter of PRIDE. West High wrestlers always have enough pride to come out on top.

Swim Team Strives For First Class

Our swim team made a splash over the 1987-88 school year. West High supported the swimmers and cheered them on. They worked together as a team to back each other up, and pushed for all they had.

The swim team was a small one, and most were sophomores. Having a younger team, the competition was tougher to cope with, but that didn't stop the swimmers.

Mr. Taylor, the swim team's coach, said "West High swimmers went a long way in improving their skills. Gordon Gridley, Jennifer Olsen, Heidi Voogeraw, Wendy Ammon, and Henning Jensen individually improved their skills and deserved recognition as one who was sometimes looked upon as being a super athlete, a hero, and a superstar. West High swimming saluted them.

The swimmers trained hard, practiced every day and strove to achieve excellence. The glory reached by each and every swimmer was well deserved. Their accomplishments were congratulated.

The swim meets were held at the Deseret Gym, as always. The competition was tough, and the swimmers gave it all they had.

GASP! Run - Don't Stop!

Cross Country was a long and vigorous sport and often a lonely pursuit. It was a sport that took a lot of dedication and effort for success. The nineteen boys and two girls worked hard this year to reach their victories with the season record being three wins and three losses.

Coach Leo Nielson stated that Cross Country was "a demanding and very honest sport, it was a true sport."

They ran at home, many sometimes equaling up to seven or ten miles a day. Coach Nielson, who started out in coaching basketball, has been coaching Cross Country for ten years and said, he thought running relieved stress and that it was a catching trend to society.

The Cross Country team ran with flying colors by taking fifth in region. On the varsity team Kent Duke, a star runner, took eighth place with a time of 15:30 and Jeff Adam took fifteenth place with the time 16:07. In junior varsity third place was David McBride with Charles Mackey taking thirteenth place, Sean Pickett fourteenth place and Chris Brown twentieth place. Then Kent Duke made it all the way to State, an outstanding honor, and took thirty-second place.

The Cross Country team excelled and had a magnificent running year.

ZOOM! Tracksters Zip By

The exasperating and breath-taking sport of track seemed to be popular this year at West as Coach Jim Maw continued to build the program. The team consisted of sixty-two students who worked hard to run their way to the top.

Ten members were returning lettermen and letterwomen. As Maw stated,

The returnees combined with the new people should make for a really strong team this year.

Practice meets began at Highland High School on March 23. All conference meets were held on Wednesdays where the team competed in dual or tri meets. Saturdays were the time for invitationals for qualifying into State. The first such invitation was the Dixie invitation in St. George on April 15th and 16th.

And with their hard practice and dedication the team proved its endurance and ability. Machy Alolipo was ranked number two in the #1-A State in sprints. Evelyn White was ranked number three in sprints. Altoleino held the school record in the triple jump which was a new event in Utah. Coach Maw felt Kent Duke would do well in his specialty of distant events. Both he and assistant coach Brad Lloyd felt the relay teams would bring home many victories.

This track team had spirit too. The closeness between members was obvious at the practices as they joked and kidded each other while working themselves half to death.

Fine Gymnasts Flip Into Action

The members of this year's gymnastics team began their season with the attitude that they would try their best and succeed.

The team spent its time enduring endless 48 practices where members learned new skills and practiced, touched up, and improved routines. The idea was to be perfect.

With the excellent coaching of Terl Warner-Chaus and assistant coach Kent Hall, the team was pressed to its highest performance.

Because of some ineligibility and injuries, such as Shelly Holtry's accident which resulted in a dislocated knee, the team was reduced to seven competing members. That was not the equivalent of a full team so they didn't compete with team wins in mind. However, each member was out to do his or her utmost to score high individually.

Their meet against South really showed how much talent the team possessed. They placed first and second in every event and took many other places.

The team held the Eminence Invitational schools called to be invited to this prestigious meet at West. Also, the regional meet was held at West.

Teachers Team Up

A well run West High enhanced the students' educational opportunities. While administration set the tone, part of that organization was a smoothly operating faculty and staff.

Faculty and staff members were friends as well as colleagues. They mixed well and helped give West its personality and electricity.

Of course, they saw one another at monthly faculty meetings where ideas were exchanged, but also each department had its own monthly meetings to keep members on top of news in each particular field. Staff members had their meetings starting with the weekly Monday morning meeting of office personnel.

Social functions allowed the groups to see each other in another light. For instance, the annual fall steak fry was held at the Cottonwood Complex and included spouses and partners. John Calevas said, "It was a pretty good turn out, and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves."

At Christmas Teresa Plele spearheaded a pot luck lunch in room 106. There was more food than anyone could finish and the party goers even had a grab bag of gifts new and old. Eva Marie Bates was amazed by a Grateful Dead cap while Terri Warner-Chaus received mistletoe on spring head gear.

At the end of the school year all faculty and staff members were hosted by the administration at a steak luncheon at Diamond Lil's.

This is not to forget that many were also personal friends and carried friendships home.

Mrs. Gwen Robertson makes her presence known throughout West. She also received the Pride Award.

Mr. Boston and Mr. Trussel walk the school grounds and observe the recent events of the winter snow storm.

Staff Gears Up

You may have thought teachers were always broadening their horizons, but what about the other staff members? They also enhanced their skills and learned to handle the aspects that they were confronted with each day in their jobs.

Judaline From, treasurer, and Larayne Michels, secretary, had demanding jobs and were in contact with many students and teachers each day. They attended three workshops to help them: "Setting your priorities," "Stress management," "Getting along with difficult people."

They learned pointers on day-to-day things, such as dealing with the attitudes of people and the different types of people. These workshops taught them to set their priorities, cope with stress, and to make everybody's interest a common one, so that they could overcome the conflicts.

Also Rula Sacco and Connie Coates began to prioritize by impact, because of the workshop, "Managing Multiple Priorities." They then managed all the work they had to do and all the interruptions during the day. They also learned to relieve stress, to establish the pressures that caused stress and to rise above difficult situations.

Some people, such as Linda Gentry, taught at workshops. She also attended all librarian service workshops, not only to keep up on the latest information, but to meet other librarians and obtain ideas to advance our own library program.

These people went beyond the job and learned to improve the workplace everyday.

Together Is Better

Friends together to make West better. Different groups of friends united.

With the unity of friends came the unity of the whole school. Each set of friends brought a feeling of togetherness. But, wasn't that what high school was all about? Friendships would blossom from the first days of our freshman year. Starting with old friends and adding new friends throughout the four years created new and everlasting memories. We would cherish these special relationships.

It was important to each one to have a special friend or friends. We all had to "fit in" with some kind of crowd and so then to fit in with the larger crowd that was West High itself.

Walking down the halls to classes together, sharing excitement in making cheerleader, winning a debate tournament, being elected a student body officer, getting asked to a dance, helping each other with homework, winning your wrestling match or volleyball game, and sharing each other's deepest secrets, concerns and interests — friends were especially needed for this time in our life.

Not only for the good times but for the not so good times too — when you lost your boyfriend or girlfriend, failed a test, or just needed a shoulder to cry on. Talking to a friend seemed to make all our problems disappear. Our friend or friends were alike in that they were there for us.

Lasting friendships was what we would say, but would they really last past high school? Maybe. Maybe not. No matter what happened, it was important that we had lasting friendships for these important four years of our lives.

What would West High have been like without the unity and togetherness of people. It wouldn't have been West High. The diverse and unified people made West High the rich school we would always remember it as.

Tammy Coburn, Missy Dodge, and Chris Smith all keep a bright smile while leading the Seniors through the year.

Seniors Keeping on Top

Leading the upper classmen could sometimes be a tricky job. In order to be a true leader, one must be strong, understanding and loads of fun. The senior class officers, of course, knew this when they decided to run for office and were elected.

Tammy Coburn, president, led the class with authority, cheer and unending spirit.

Vice President Chris Smith and secretary Missy Dodge helped the seniors to a memorable end to their last high school year.

Wow! Little did the seniors know the fun and excitement their great officers had planned for them. From Homecoming Week through Spirit Week to graduation, fun was non-stop. Hard work and long hours were also non-stop.

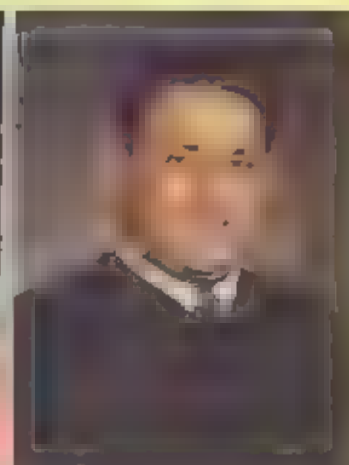

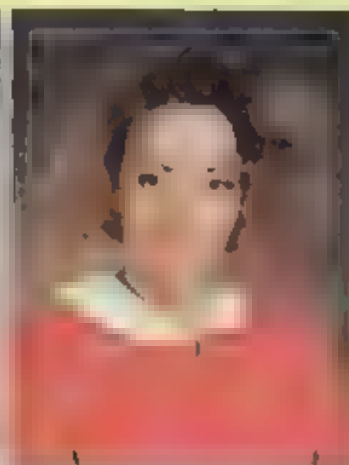

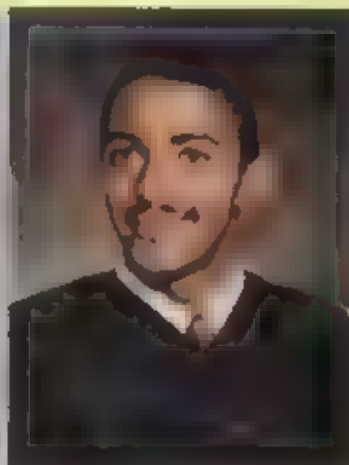

Tammy and Missy were both in the spirit for Homecoming as they participated in the Queen pageant. Missy performed a beautiful piano piece while Tammy presented a hilarious comedy skit and finished as one of the six finalists.

Chris Smith worked along with Tammy and Missy. When not going to games, dances and other school activities, he worked at his full time job at Smith's food store. The senior executives passed out buttons to help keep up spirit and held a Senior Fair. They also raised money by working in the concession stand and by holding a stomp.

Overall, the spirited Class of '88 had many wonderful and fond memories to cherish. Needless to say, class sponsor Ralph Gatherum was an important part of that with his unwavering support.

We Want Your Money!

Fund raising reached new heights. Products such as beef sticks, shirts, catalog orders, Nestle candy bars and bear sales were offered to the student body. These helped cheerleaders with the money they needed to go to national competition. The National Honor Society offered Dining Plus Books.

The Oestanas featured Fernwood candy, family portraits, a clinic and a 'Night Out' for parents and friends.

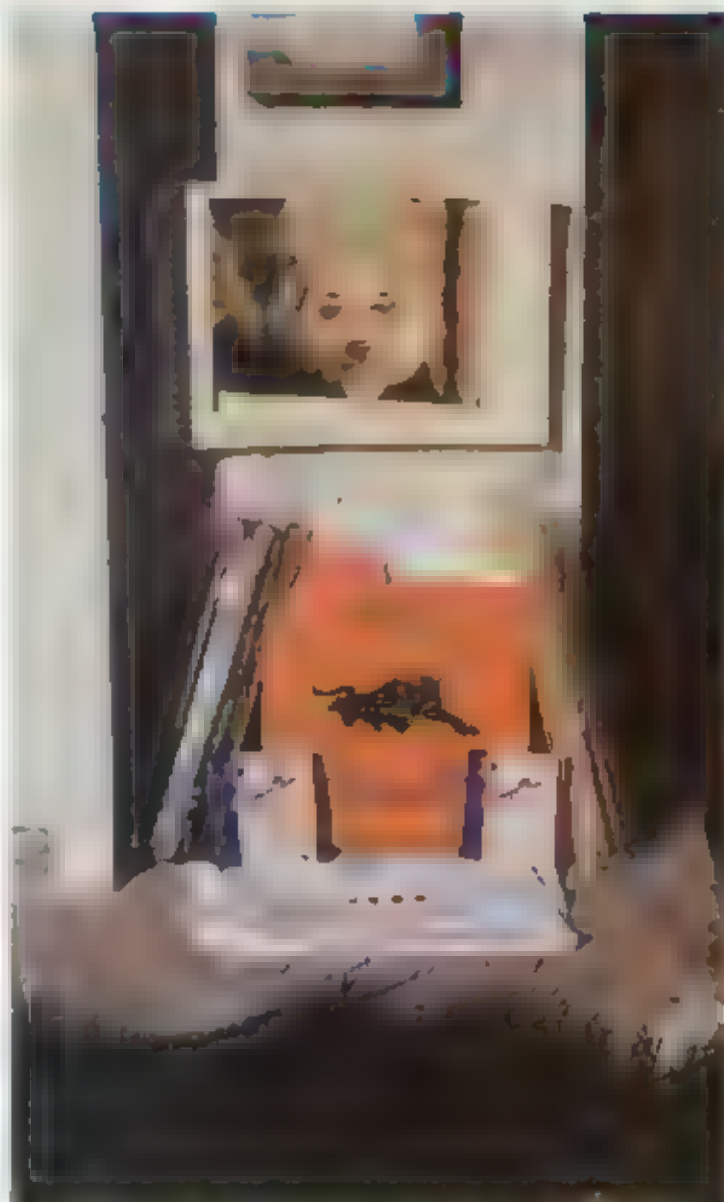

The baseball and track teams sold chocolate bunnies, girls' volleyball sold candy and gift items and the gymnastics team sold sports cushions.

The Marching Panthers had Panther sunglasses, F.B.L.A. booklet orders. Drama candy bags and the Dance Company held a homecoming raffle for limo service.

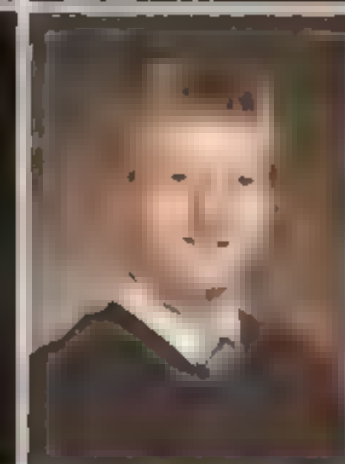

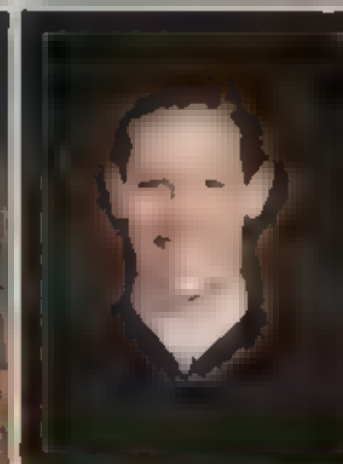

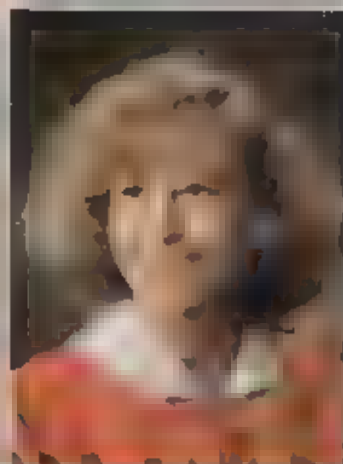

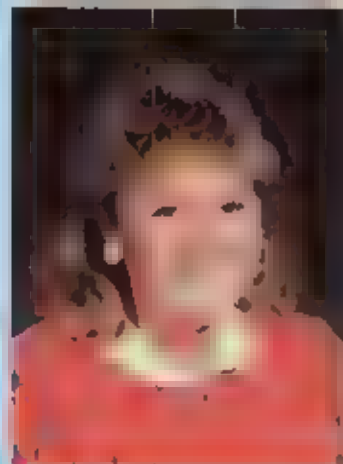

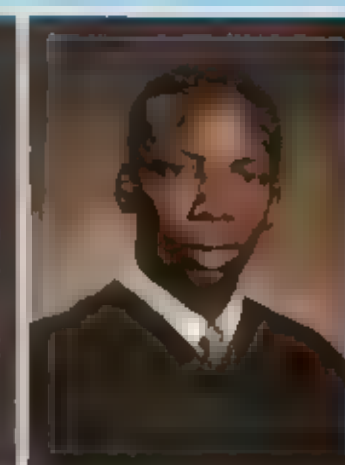

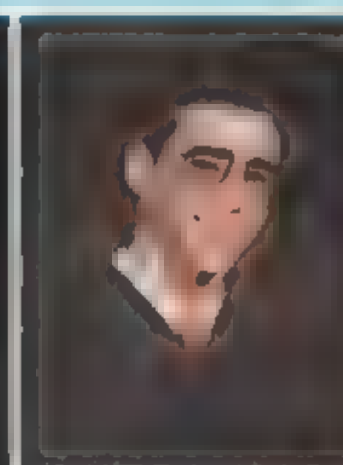

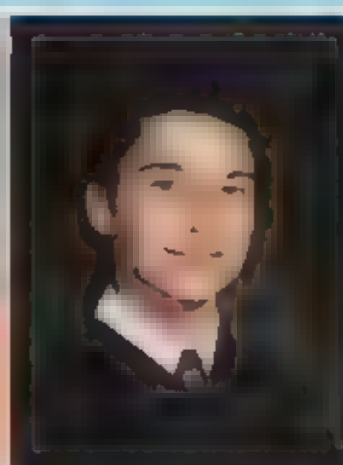

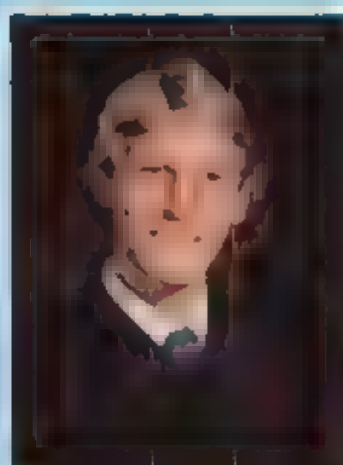

The Junior class sold service certificates and pulled weeds and collected phone books and sold parts of the football field.

To top it off, student government had a varsity press fund raiser and collected money for the Sub-for-Santa Drive.

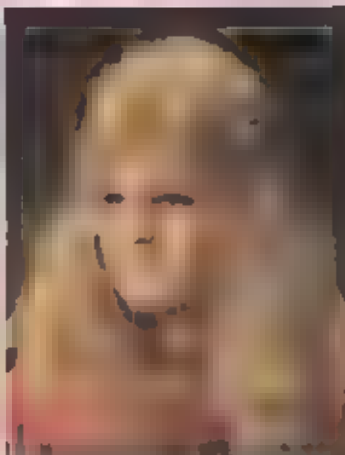

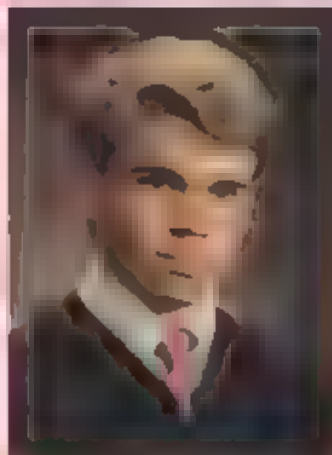

Enterprising students were not about to let a decrease in educational monies stop them!

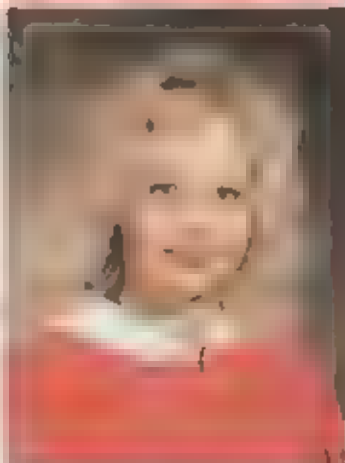

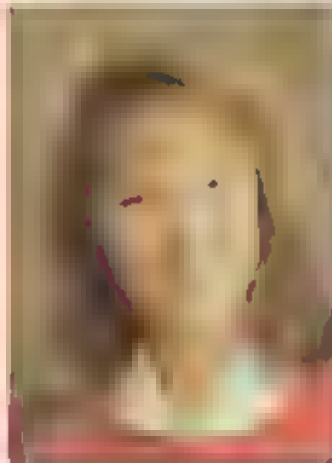

As products of fund raisers showed up in the halls throughout the year, students opened their wallets to offer support to participating clubs and sports.

Amerika'yi Seviyoruz!

Foreign exchange students brought new color, different experience, and bright ideas to share with West. There were three students from Japan, Turkey and Brasil. Everyone was curious to know more about these students, what they looked like, how they spoke, what they thought about and various details concerning their countries.

West was so happy to have "Masanore (Mark) Kanda" from UENO, A small town in Japan.

Mark wasn't on a regular exchange program. He was 17 years old, and he came by himself to the U.S.A. The Japanese high schools were bigger than here. The students didn't drive cars to go to school, they usually rode buses, bicycles or trains. He found the teachers and students friendly.

The English language wasn't a problem to Pinar Fesli, an 18 year old from Turkey. She had already graduated from high school in Izmir, her town by the sea where she had for neighbors Iran and Iraq. "The people that I met are mostly friendly."

"I will be really sad to leave Salt Lake, but it will be really good to be with my parents again," said Marta Conde from Sao Paulo, the largest city in Brasil.

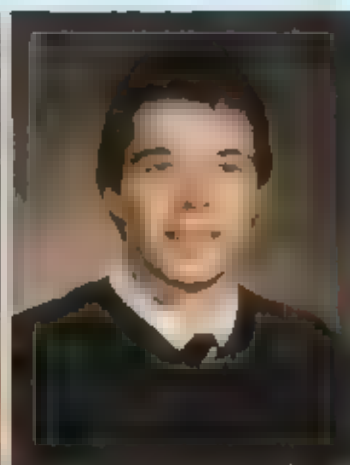

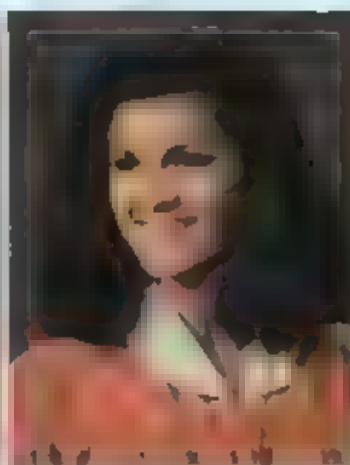

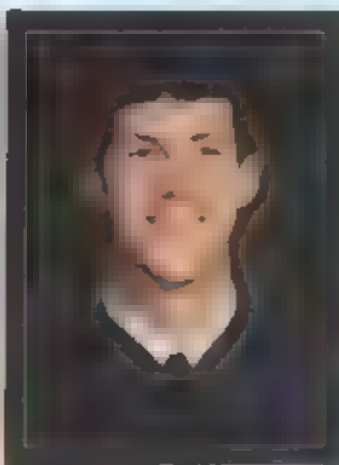

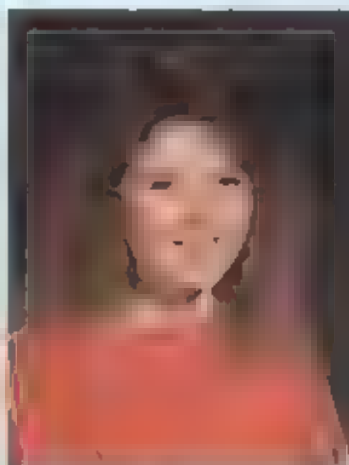

"Here at West, I've found good friends and people who care about me," said Marta three months before she went back to Brasil.

The team and earn scholarship display helped students earn scholarships to their favorite college

Learning And Earning

Scholarships gave seniors a better opportunity to continue their education. Students knew college could be expensive and the effort to receive a scholarship was worth it.

The Learn and Earn Scholarship display showed students at West some of the scholarships given by various colleges, universities and technical schools. The special display focused on a different class each time it was brought to the foyer, from seniors to freshmen. The point was it was never too early to make those college plans. The display gave requirements and even classes needed.

All during high school

there were tests to take some of which could help one get a scholarship. A high enough score opened many opportunities.

Scholarships were offered not only for academics and sports, but also for extra-curricular activities. There were scholarships for writers, for future teachers, and for almost every field of endeavor such as band and orchestra.

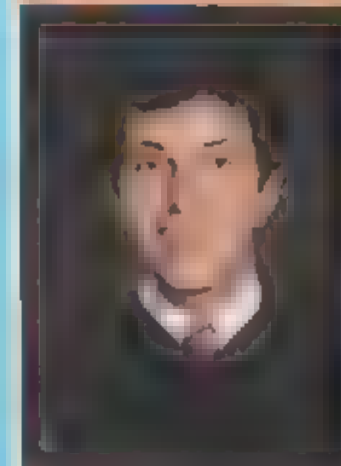

West took care of its own too, because the PTSA and the Alumni Association and the Class of 1965 added their scholarships to the grand total.

In the long run there were pay-offs, not just in money but also in knowledge.

Cafeteria director Rose Vamanakis takes a moment of relaxation after a hard day's work

Beating The Fast Foods

Our excellent cafeteria staff and our delicious school lunch had to keep up this year with the major competition fast food. It was in jeopardy, along with other high schools in Salt Lake District.

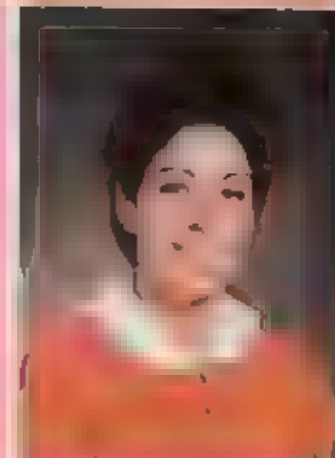

If you can't beat 'em join 'em, and that's exactly what the cafeteria staff did. What about a ten inch pizza for a low price of $2.50? Students loved the idea and it was soon spread throughout the school that great pizza was being sold at a low price in the cafeteria. What an idea and soon the cafeteria was making money like crazy, at the cost of fast food joints losing money.

Later in the year, hoagie sandwiches and buckets of chicken were offered to the students at reasonable rates. The trend caught on fast and the cafeteria was soon out of jeopardy. Students no longer complained about school lunch and the administration no longer had to worry about so many fast food junkies leaving school campus to satisfy their appetites.

It was a new and chancey idea that had to be done in order to keep the cafeteria in business. A risk with rewarding results.

It was elbow to elbow. Let's hope we all used it.

Pushed Out The Door

Many of the academic and honors classes of West High were far too crowded. Classes ranging from fifty to one hundred were fit into classrooms that could not hold all of the students. It was up to the counselors to find places for the students and up to the administration to hire more teachers.

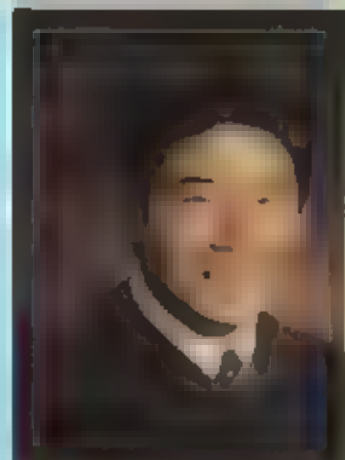

West enrolled over one hundred more students than planned for. These extra students came from new families moving into the area and also included a number of former South High students alternating to West.

Delos Jensen was greeted by one hundred students in his honors math class and had to meet with them in C-14. Robert Larson's sixty-four 9th grade honors English students perched on tables until he added another honors class to his schedule. Paula Fowler's honors classes spilled over into the old yearbook room until she moved to the larger B-19 while John Nowell contemplated fifty-five in A.P. History.

The permanent way to reduce the classes was by hiring extra teachers both full and part time. Once more teachers had the time to answer questions and work individually with each student

Students were asked, what would you do if you won a million dollars? The most popular answer was invest it in the bank and gain interest

Melissa Summerhays-move to Switzerland and ski a year round

Shannon Crawford-spend it on designer clothes and start a new design line

Allison Walker I'd invest it into the sound, reliable stock market

Peter Bell-give the money to starving people in India so my mom can't make me eat my left overs and say "Just think about the starving people in India"

Chuck Larsen-Give it to save the whales

Hendy Ammon-ship my sister and my mom out of Utah

Nathan Black-I would use it for lunch money

Students were asked What are your plans after graduation?

Over 50% of the students asked said Go to college, travel, and get married

Amy Dillon-Go to an out of state college, play college softball, and be an All-American. During college hopefully, I can be on the Pan-Am or Olympic softball team. After school travel some and maybe someday settle down

Students were asked if West High were the high school closing instead of South, how would you feel?

The majority of the students stated they would be upset. Al Dinh-The closing of West in place of South High would occur ultimately for unjust reasons. West High's location is prime and the instituted programs are highly esteemed. However, if necessity required, I'd feel that the closure of any school would not constitute the dismemberment of a proud student body. Of course, there'd be dissatisfied people-I'd be one of them

Students were asked What has West High improved in the most in the past four years.

The most popular answer was improvements in the halls and the cafeteria

Sean Pickett-I used to go to school in Boise, and West is far better than any school. Not only in sports, but the administration is doing a great job. We have an atmosphere in the halls, that makes you feel West is great

Students were asked what has West High done for you the most since you've attended here?

Tracy Scott West has helped me to grow emotionally, socially and intellectually and has prepared me more than any other high school would have for the real world

Derek Jentzsch-West has increased my tolerance for everything and changed my opinion about the world

Juniors Unite

Do It Right For Class And West

Donald Dunn, Amy Dillon, James Ik, and sponsor Linda Richmond planned a year of fun and hard work. They formed the Junior Activity Committee (JAC) consisting of 30 juniors, each of whom supervised 10 other juniors. An activity for each month was planned at a summer retreat at the Airport Hilton.

September saw the Junior Jellybean contest. October was Homecoming Week and showing their spirit by decorating two Homecoming fences and holding the Halloween stomp. November brought the talent assembly "Fantasy Island." In December the class supported Sub for Santa. January showed the pride that the Junior Class had by their part in "Pride Week." Spirit Week was a very successful February activity while March involved the preparation for the Junior Prom held in April. The year ended with a class party.

The officers even gave a helium birthday balloon to each junior. Extra funding came through individual juniors selling service certificates to perform tasks.

What a busy and marvelous year thanks to Donald, Amy, James and Linda!

Juniors Jason Johnson and Melissa Summerhays scoop deep to get enough jellybeans to fill the five "intest" jars. West boys at bulk course to economize wherever possible.

West Jells Well

One of the new and different activities that started the 1987 year was the guessing game for the "Junior Jelly beans" sponsored by the junior class. Why, may you ask would the junior class want to give away jellybeans? Donald Dunn, president stated the purpose of the generous gift giving was to show "One of the wonderful things that the junior class does for West High."

Jars of colorful jellybeans each jar representing each class's color and a mixture of red, black, and white for the faculty, were kept in the front display case where all could see. Students came from far and wide to see if they could make the right guess. But those whose guesses were best were Mrs. Bates for the faculty, Lara Dwight for the seniors, Cesar Martinez for the juniors, Rachelle Blair for the sophomores, and Ryan Harding for the freshmen. The winners were announced during the Hello Day Assembly and each received a class jelly bean jar.

These two cheerful alumni smiled graciously for the camera at the alumni Homecoming presentation. Alice Dunn graduated in the Class of 1929, and Denny Dunn graduated in the Class of 1937.

West Is Forever

Class reunions are a very big part of West High School's existence. West opened in 1890 and has been open for 98 years. Through all those years West became larger and improved with every graduating class.

Every student at West High looks forward to coming back for his or her class reunion to see friends and best buds.

The Fiftieth reunion of West High this year was the graduating class of 1937. The reunion was held in the cafeteria where alums gathered to share fond memories with old friends.

How did it feel to be back? One alumni was so thrilled he generously donated his 1937 class ring to West High's Hall of Fame. He commented "It is ecstatic to be back, E-C-S-T-A-T-I-C!"

Of course Mr. Trusset and the cheerleaders were present to share in remembering West by singing the alma mater with feeling and cheering with spirit.

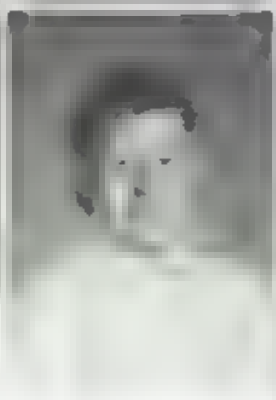

The memory of West lived on, in the present students, and soon, in the hearts of future Panthers!

Let's Volunteer

For West's participation in the American Cancer Society Jail-A-Thon Mr. Trussel smiles in amazement at the day's events. He leads the students in support of a worthy cause.

West was involved in the happenings of the community. The Passport to Work program used a credit card which contained a photo of the student, his classes to date, citizenship and attendance. Students, when applying for a job at a company in this program showed this qualification card to the employer.

Because of the faculty and student lives which had been affected by cancer all pitched in and donated to the American Cancer Society. Mr. Trussel was "arrested" at lunch and taken to mock jail at Crossroads Mall. He and students raised over $200 in an hour for bail, and it went to the charity.

Also, adult volunteers in the community were involved in trying to get every graduating senior who wanted to go to college the scholarship money to go.

In the Sub-for-Santa fund raiser, E-Board and the student body collected money to give community families an extra special Christmas. Large amounts of money were donated to the PTSA eyeglass fund. Key Club volunteered time to rest homes, Special Olympics and hospitals.

West and the community got involved in a positive way.

Mr. Lloyd Coates monitors test taking in his social studies class, making students aware that time is of the essence

Tests, tests and more tests! The test requirements have increased in number and become more difficult. Every student took at least two major required tests, and almost every subject class had at least one required test to pass.

The freshmen took the SAT and the sophomores took the PSAT. During the junior year, there were the ASVAB test, the GATB test, and the ACT test. The U.S. Army gave the ASVAB, or American Service Vocational Aptitude Battery.

The GATB, or General Aptitude Testing Battery, was used to find each student's ideal vocational direction. Finally, the ACT, which was an indicator of college ability, included English, math, social studies and sciences.

Any student who chose to take an advanced placement course was required to pass, or at least try to pass, the subject AP exam with a score of three or above.

Mrs. Marilyn Lafferty, counselor, kept track of all the tests.

"I had to take these tests, so I was trained in test taking. That's how I keep track of them all!"

Juniors Point Way '89 SUCCEEDS TOTALLY

J.A.C. What was it? J was for Juniors; A, for activity AND C for committee. The Committee was formed by the junior officers and advisor and consisted of thirty juniors.

Each leader was in charge of ten other juniors. This system was to make sure every junior was informed about activities and could get involved and included.

On July 11, 1987, the officers and J.A.C. leaders met at the Airport Hilton to assign their ten people and to plan activities for the following school year. Mr. Trussel attended and gave them an inspiring charge.

Most of the morning was spent planning, making posters, listening to lectures and throwing out ideas. In the afternoon leaders took a break and advantage of the fun activities the Hilton provided.

The J.A.C. had to raise money to pay for activities. Juniors sold service certificates. Buyers would pay money in return for a work service. This fund raiser went on all year.

J.A.C. leaders were always there to help in every activity. They were an example to the school of leadership, organization, and involvement.

Sophomore officers Kirsten Clawson, Kim Saldivar and Carla Jackson drape themselves around the name sign of the school they love and serve so well

Sophs Move Up '90 FINDS ITS PLACE

With President Kirsten Clawson, Vice President Kim Saldivar, and Secretary Carla Jackson the year was filled with fun activities for the class of '90. They planned class parties, their talent assembly, and a stomp. The class profited from these leaders and from new advisor Miss Paula Fowler.

Sophomores also worked the concession trailer during games to add to their funds. Sophomore students' birthdays were always recognized with a birthday card from the entire class. Their Homecoming fence decoration with its creative Home on the Range theme tied for first place.

The officers were involved in other activities too. Kirsten participated in cross country, Key Club, and WAG. Kim was involved in church activities, and Carla was in Oestanas.

As Kirsten said, "I think we have the greatest sophomore class and I just want everybody involved so they can have the greatest high school years."

Alums have their own special room at West High. Nicely furnished and supplied with yearbooks. Here Association board members talk. Pat Toone, Linda Richmond, Kent Donaldson, Mary Rose, and Gene Rose.

A Million? Yes!

Remember the Hall of Fame where nationally known alumni of West were honored? That was the work of the Alumni Association. And that was only a part of what they did. The goal of the Association was "to benefit the students of West in their education" through securing funds for scholarships and motivational aids such as letter sweaters.

The Association was started in April 1986 by some alums who were impressed by a newspaper article on the improvements at West.

In order to help promote these improvements and get the students looking to their futures, the Association was formed. In its first year it was able to secure $5,000 in scholarships for the class of 1987. Their financial goal was to eventually have a bank account of a million dollars. To approach this enormous sum, the Association sponsored fund raisers such as their February magic show and by "selling" sections of the football field during Homecoming.

"The Alumni Association is like the parents of West. It would always be here no matter where you go," said alum Linda Richmond.

PTSA Powers Up

If you wanted something improved or changed or just wanted to put in your two cents worth on matters concerning West, you could join the PTSA. This volunteer organization was dedicated to West's welfare. They met the needs of students and teachers alike and got parents involved.

"Through our efforts, hopefully, the students at West can enjoy a high school career that's as productive as possible," said President Betty Bell.

Fund Raisers were a major part of the PTSA. Besides brilliant minds, cash was what kept it going. Their gift wrap was so successful that they just might sell it again. Also, all membership dues go to the PTSA Scholarship Fund and other activities.

A big program is the Reflections Contest which Mrs. Bell felt gave students the recognition they deserved and needed for the good work they did.

The PTSA was always participating in the community such as with a remembrance ceremony for Martin Luther King's birthday. Tracy Scott, the student representative, or another member was always present for Board meetings on the boundry is-

Getting involved was what it was all about.

FOOD BANK FILLS UP

Over the year, the school sponsored many charitable fund raisers. One in particular was the Food Drive that went on during the week prior to Thanksgiving. The food was brought in cans and was delivered to the Utah Food Bank at the Northwest Multi-Purpose Center. The food was then available to several needy families in the area.

In order to boost participation by the students, the food drive was set up as a class competition. The two classes with the most cans of food at the end of five days on points for Spirit Week. Cans were brought into the attendance office, marked, and placed by the students into the appropriate class box.

The ELP's also participated even though they were vastly outnumbered. The juniors brought in the most cans; seniors were a close second.

The Food Drive was in favor of two good causes: food for the needy and points for Spirit Week.

The Utah Food Bank was grateful for the generous giving of "tons" of food from the West student body. Larayne Mickels, attendance secretary, worked hard for everyone as she made sure the canned goods were organized and in the right class boxes.

The elusive paper turkey is run down the driving range wire until it is posed for a shooter to take aim. The high student score was a 73 by Shawn Gatehouse

Shooters Score

For the Thanksgiving season students and staff tested their skill and aim for the chance to win a turkey for their Thanksgiving dinner.

For only fifty cents you received five bullets or chances to strike the paper turkey and the numbers on the back that added up to give you your score. This was actually a game of chance. You could be the best shooter in the school, but unless you knew where the numbers lay, your score still depended on the numbers that by chance lay where your shot struck the paper.

As you walked in the door

the noise from the simultaneous gunshots was extreme. Also you could smell the smoke the guns put off everytime a trigger was pulled. Even though not everybody could win, it was fun to just try and test your skill.

All of the money raised went to the Physical Ed Department. Coach Plaga in charge of the shoot made sure the money was put to good use in P.E. programs.

The faculty winner was Dan Dudley with 54. Student winners were Shawn Gatehouse, Matt Cox, Travis Vandonga and John Van Leewen.

Mrs. Leslie France, experience driver with license, flaunts her special privilege as exhausted drivers ed students lie at her feet

Freedom Is Hard

"Look everyone, I got my license!" That was one of the most famous lines heard from sophomores. These new and excited drivers were anxious to show everyone their card of freedom. But, should we have trusted these unexperienced drivers on our roads?

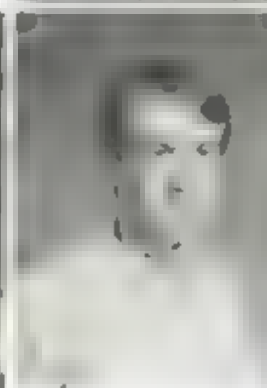

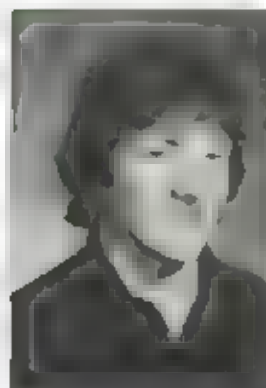

Students, mostly the sophomores, had to work hard and for what seemed forever to get their certificates to take their driver's test. Early mornings and late nights, driver ed students had to go to classes for a total of thirty hours.

Many would spend Saturdays driving the range to reach the four hour total. Besides driving 40 mph on the range, they had to spend eight hours in the simulators. And that was the worst of all. Many experienced drivers exclaimed, "Half the time they don't work right!"

This was not the end of it either. The challenge really came when students had to go out in the real world and drive on the street to total two hours.

After forty-four hours, students learned how to drive. Was it worth it? The long suffering response was "YES!"

Tracy Archuleta talks to her friend, senior president Tammy Coburn, a member of WESHCO

Dr. Paul Hanks, Boundary Committee Chairman, points to one of the many maps the committee considered in school equality

Students Unify SOUTH CLOSES

West, East, South and Highland made up a group called WESHCO or WESH. The group consisted of student body officers and class officers from these four schools who met together during the year to discuss different topics, such as South closing and boundary changes.

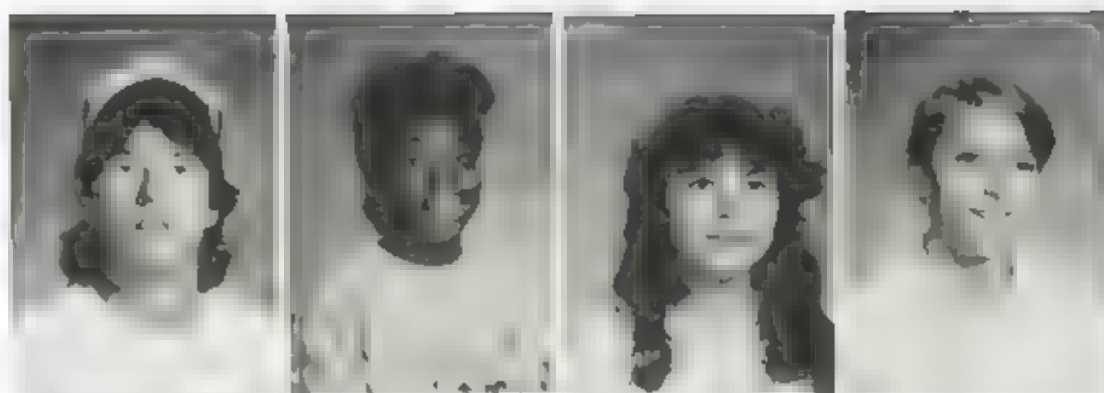

The four schools' goal was to become unified and just to get along with each other. As Rob Leishman put it, "If rumors are going around, we want to get the situation cleared up." He thought that WESH worked and was a good thing to have.

Meeting at the School Board, WESH tried to help with the school consolidation by having students get along with each other and by spreading pride, unity and each other's ideas.

At one particularly heated Board meeting, the four student body presidents stood together at the microphone and asked the parents to let the kids just go to school and be friends.

WESH helped tone down the conflict between the four high schools and pushed toward a brighter future in which South students would enrich the three other schools and other student changes could be made easier.

Joel Pulliam, Chastity Corona, and Janet Green take a moment during lunch to discuss class business

'91 Is More Fun

Leading the freshmen through the '87-'88 year were three spirited panthers determined to make the year great! The officers were President Chastity Corona, Vice President Janet Green, and Secretary Joel Pulliam. Along with sponsor Susie Thomas, they planned many exciting activities

The freshman Homecoming fence "Rope the Butts" took first place in the fence decorating contest. The freshman talent assembly on January 8th was excellent. Especially fun were the fifties singing numbers and the on-going "100 cartons of milk on the wall"

Their St. Patrick's Day stomp in the cafeteria raised funds for a class party in the spring for all those freshmen who had helped out on these activities, including Spirit Week

Besides being officers Chastity was in Esprit, as was Janet and Joel was a member of the debate team. Before the year was out, the officers also designed a goodlooking sweatshirt for their classmates in red with a black panther and white highlights

The officers helped make the freshmen year great for the class of '91

Secretary of Education T. H. Bell gives his own form of orientation to an honors civics class, explaining government

Frosh Start Right

The freshmen and ELP students entered the auditorium, becoming a part of the West High School Spirit.

The students were welcomed by the unique personality and humor of our student body president, Robbi Leishman. He urged them to get involved in school activities and make school the best it can be.

Don Johnson reminded the students of good conduct while going to assemblies. He then talked about the many important practicing traditions of West High School. Then the students were challenged by Mr. Boston to do their best and to take every opportunity that was available to them.

Then the traditional school song was performed by Debbie Burgess, as the spirit of the song was heard throughout the crowd.

There were some fun and exciting contests that took place, where the students really got involved.

Then the cheerleaders led the crowd in cheers to help get the freshmen involved at the games.

As the students were told to go back to class, they walked out of the auditorium with plans in mind to make their high school years one of their best times of their life that they would always remember.

West's foyer embodies tradition as the hulking panther guards the holiday tree

Cherish The Old

There were many traditions at West which students considered to be important. Number one was probably the school song "West, Our Alma Mater." It was a tradition to stand for the song while the head cheerleader did the motions and the audience sang, also showing respect by not clapping at the end of the song. Another school song always to be played after a winning game was the Victory Song.

Other traditions were certain assemblies: Hello Day, pep, and class talent. The Christmas dance, junior prom, Western Round-Up and stomps could be added to the list. Big was Homecoming with its full week of activities, including fence decorations. A new tradition was that of choosing Homecoming Royalty, now in its third year. Who would ever forget Spirit Week with the class competition culminating in the Spirit Bowl?

Another tradition which showed respect and honor was that of standing for the student body president. A significant action was the annual burning of a "W" on the mountainside on graduation night.

Of course, the panther itself and the school colors of red and black formed the base of West's traditional unity, loyalty, and school spirit as new and old blended.

Russel Hicks is all set for the slopes, but Old Man Winter did not cooperate. Skis at the ready. Russel is stuck.

Oh, Let It Snow

For many people, snow meant skiing, and this year we didn't get snow early enough for some people.

Usually, Utah was graced with a goodly amount of snow for Thanksgiving, even if only in the mountains. This year Brian Head and Powder Mountain were the only resorts open then, and for many locals the four and a half hour drive was just too much. Park West opened on man made snow after the Coca Cola Cup, but what was usually one of the most productive weekends for the resorts wasn't.

The lack of snow frustrated not only resorts, but also West students and teachers.

Amy Dillon said, "It is pathetic that we had to wait so long." And many panthers agreed with her as Mr. Sheridan Prince just kept on waxing his cross country skis.

New skis went unused for most of December as the sight of brownish-green grass became more and more depressing.

Mr. Court Richards said, "The snow will come." And it did with a good series of storms for Christmas. First Brighton opened Mary and Majestic and then Alta opened on the 16th. Snowbird and Solitude followed.

All was finally well.

Get That Paycheck

Chris Smith pauses on his break at his job with Smith's Food King. Many students worked twenty to forty hours weekly.

It seemed that money was the key to everything in the days of '87-'88 and students needed a lot of it. Reasons ranged from activities such as games, stumps, movies, and eating out to paying for cars and clothes and saving for college. Most students worked hard for their money and ended up spending it on themselves.

Many would start in the job market in their freshman year, making them feel in touch with the real world. Jobs ranged from working at McDonald's to an eatery in the mall all the way to working at LDS Hospital, The Salt Lake Tribune and the Beehive House also had West workers.

Ben Fannesbeck stuck with his tried and true paper route, a money maker for years for him. Susan Sternbridge thought the tips at Fred's were more than worth her time. Tonya Baker gained managerial experience at Cobbler's while Missy Dodge saw performances for free as she ushered at the Capitol Theatre.

Students didn't work just to get money but also for job experience and to get a taste of their future fields of interest. Whatever the reason, the experience paid in more ways than one.

Mrs. Shiba's HERO students use fashion magazines to get a feeling for trends as they design clothes

Present Is Past

Fads - what goes around comes around was the expression we all knew. Mentioning the micro-mini to your mom caused her to gasp at her remembrance of its very awful shortness. What about "Star Trek" with its beehive 'do's and those funky boots? They didn't come back but the mini did. Not in the micro proportions of the Enterprise; but, like long hair, it returned.

1987 saw several short lived and probably-didn't-make-it-to-Utah fads like animal prints and neon. We did see unusually colored hair on a few though.

Clothes alone didn't make the trendy. It was all in the attitude.

A while ago, a battery commercial featured a bloke with a white crewcut yelling "OY" at us. In 1987 down under came up America's Cup wasn't the only thing we got from Australia, thanks to Crocodile Dundee.

In the year 2001 some high school kids could be writing an article about our beloved 501's, belief in David Letterman, slogan T-shirts, and comparing to their ... who knows?

Cross your fingers it won't be bell bottoms!

Art Messages Us

While the main halls of West featured famous art prints and choice graphics, there was other art to be found in the building. This other art expressed messages and informed and entertained all at once.

Perhaps the most obvious of the "other" art were the billboards just opposite the elevator on each floor. Changed monthly, these classy, glassy models had bright photos and drawings and noteworthy information on topics from health to fads to stars to inventions.

But art messages were not lagging in the classrooms either. Each month Mrs. Teresa Piele awarded a cash prize to the teacher who had the best bulletin board for that month. Carma Owen was the first winner with her presentation of Shakespeare.

Posters abounded from Ed Thomas' stalking panther behind his desk to the "Hang Loose" wrinkled dog up in the yearbook office. Counselor Shirley Anderson would give posters with messages to her students to encourage them. And who knew how many posters, the slim jobs, were posted in lockers.

Don't forget the art painted at the end of the second floor hall, a mural to be changed every year or two.

Art was indeed alive and well at West.

Two of West's finest chatting in the hall?
Not so. Just another example of billboard art in the school.

Officers line up for action. Michael Kennedy, Matt Beck, Shad Outsen, and Melissa Dean

Little Is Mighty

The Extended Learning Program had great officers who planned many fun activities.

Some of their activities were dances for the holidays and parties for special occasions. They had an ice skating party in February and invited the sixth graders from Bennion and Lowell to get acquainted. A social on the south lawn marked the first week of school. Many went on field trips to the opera, ballet and museums.

The officers were president Julie Larsen, vice presidents Sarah Heilbrun and Chad Christensen, secretary Michael Kennedy, eighth grade newsletter chairperson Melissa Dean, seventh grade newsletter chairperson Mathew Beck, and publicity Shad Outsen.

The ELP students were glad to be at West; they felt more welcomed than they ever have. Many ELP's were involved with West school activities, the school plays, debate and many of the clubs. ELP also had a choir that performed during Christmas and other times during the year.

These "Extra Little Panthers" brought fresh enthusiasm to West High School.

Champs Fit In

Just what was the Extended Learning Program that was new to West this year?

The program was open to students in grades seven to twelve and had about 160 enrolled. These students came from South, Highland, Lowell and Bennion. The program was formerly at South and Highland High Schools but was consolidated at West.

The Extended Learning Program was for accelerated students to have a better variety of classes and at higher levels. The ELP students could take classes in the honors program and in advanced foreign languages. These students would attend high school for six years and graduate with their chronological age level class.

West ELP's had three ELP teachers, Mrs. Larsen, Mrs. Romney and Mrs. Neilson. These teachers taught history, English and other basics for the seventh and eighth graders. They also kept the program running smoothly.

One feature of the program was extensive one-on-one work with each of its participants. For instance, since so many ELP's of all ages were in regular West honors classes, their three "home-base" teachers sought feedback on each's progress from West's other teachers.

The ELP students were truly a vital part of the School of Scholars and Champions.

For all the arguments when we called you stubborn and one track minded, were are proud that those same traits got you where you are today. And what a GREAT place to be And you did it all in the 'nice time.' Love Mom and Dad

This Is It!

That's All, Folks!

This is it! The year 1987-88 was a year of unity and spirit. The halls were spread with a sense of togetherness, as students gathered pride. The student body of West took their attitude "be true to your school" everywhere they went. And that was it. Students leave the school year with hope and joy looking forward to the next year. Seniors carry their memories with them to future endeavors.

The harmonious students of West High make it the spirited school it is. West United-Spirit Undivided. The school theme is nowhere more evident than in the staunch leadership of principal Harold Trussel who never misses an opportunity to boost West's reputation.

And 1987-88 was a year of this is it! This was a year to make West more spirited, to spread unity throughout, to be as one, and to overall make West better. Students, parents, faculty, staff, and friends of West unite in welcoming the new students and new challenges to come.

The Panther staff hopes that this yearbook will be one to remember and thanks you, the student body, for making this year an exciting one to record.

To end this wonderful and spectacular year, the Panther staff says, "That's all, folks!"

mandi-

How do you put
with that guy.

May you guys have the best of luck in the Future! ▽

I'll see you around.

KRIS

AMANDA,
 It has been a pleasure
 knowing you. You are such a smarty. I've really grown to respect you ~~more~~, you will achieve in everything you do. I wish you the best of luck in the future, not that you need it. Anyways have a fun and exciting summer.

Chi Minh Hoang

Chi Hoang

Manly,
 Had fun in History,
 don't really know you to well but it was fun. Good luck with Mr. Sunday, and if you need someone to kill Mrs. White for you, just call, he up.
 But

"That's all Folks!"

Amanda, just so smart for me! (1) you're just made History fun. But you really made History fun. You work of luck in your future. You work hard on (8)

From Jordine

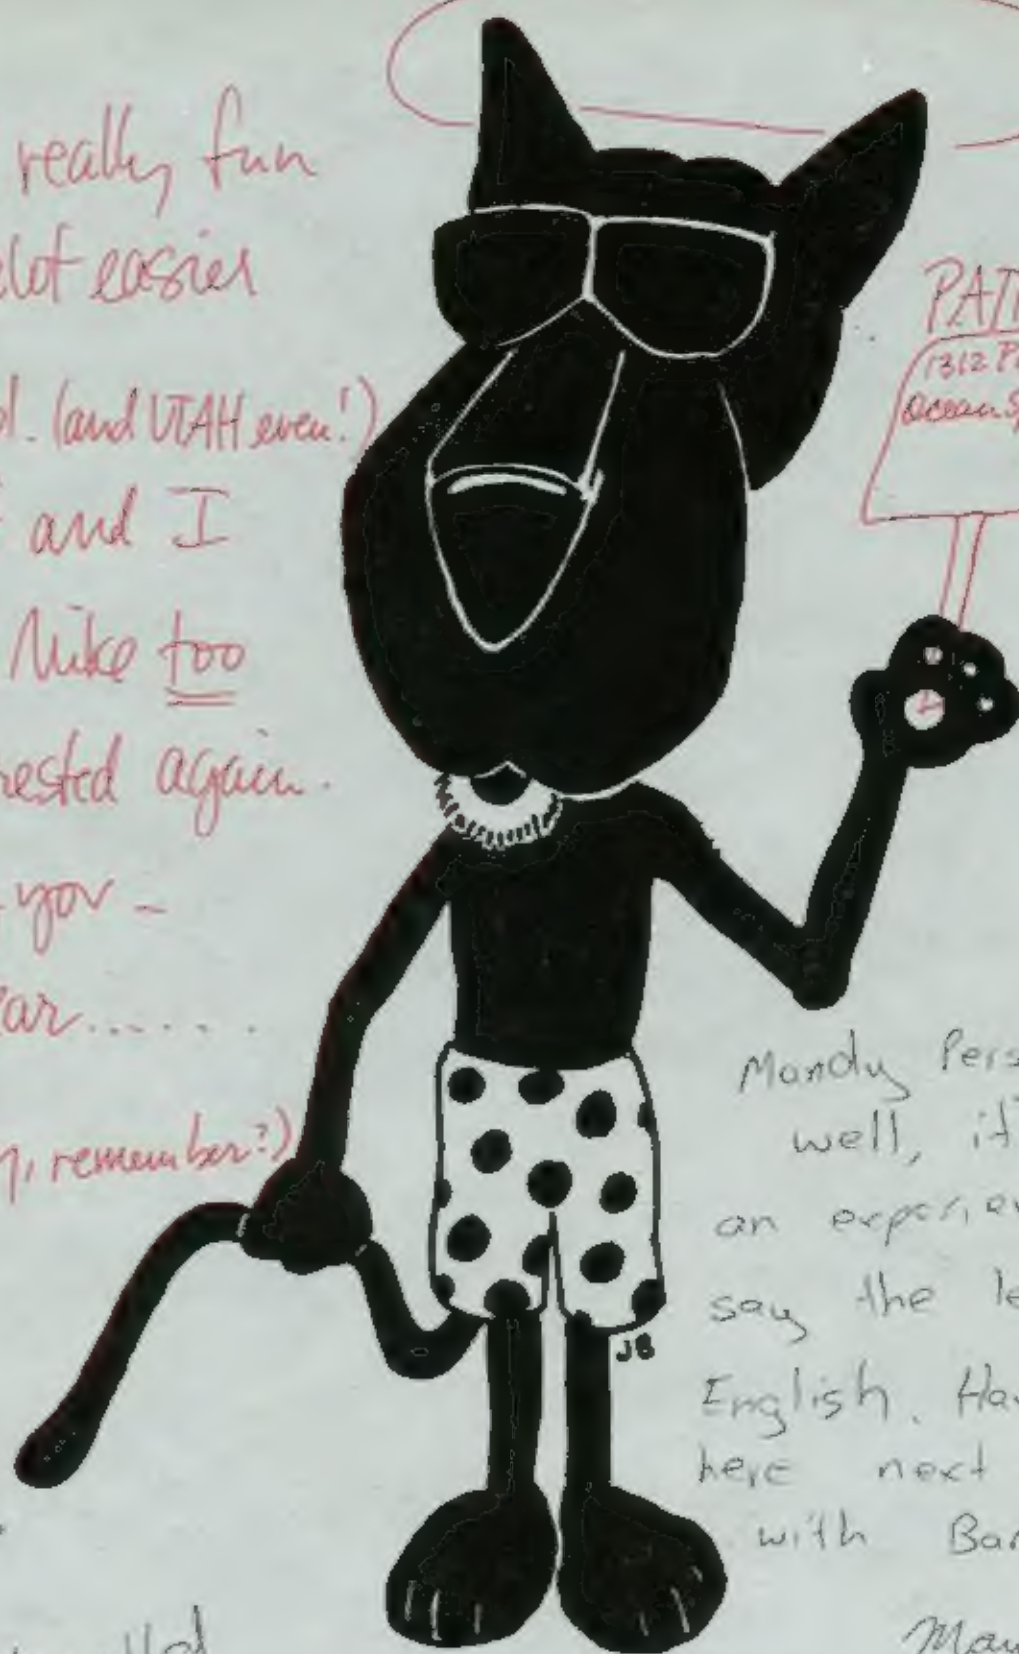

Friend

Amanda J.,
 You've made my life at west really fun filled & exciting. You made it alot easier for me coming to a new school. (and UTAH even!) you're a smarty fashion buff and I don't want you to get married to Mike too early. OK? Don't ever get arrested again.
 It's been really nice knowing you -
 Maybe I'll see you next year.....

♥, Patty (Ramsey, remember?)

Mandi Babe!
 OH Miss Whyte!
 We love her so!
 I think she ~~is~~ should suck her toe! No more miss Whyte - Thank you Lord!

 But she's a good teacher!
 Class has been fun with all you quite interesting questions!
 See ya next year!

Mandy Person,
 well, it's been an experience, to say the least, in English. Have fun
 here next year
 with Barney.
